PREFACE

In the project of Descriptive Catalogue of manuscripts undertaken by us we publish now the second volume. This contains the description of 1000 texts, available in 160 palm-leaf manuscripts. As already explained in the preface of the first volume, each of these manuscripts has many works, as most of them are manuals used for the personal purpose of the priests to whom they belong. The fact that they have been in the possession of the Śaiva priests indicates that the Śaiva tradition includes practice of all these texts whether they are purely Śaiva or Śākta. Most of the palm-leaf manuscripts contain some stray chapters quoted from the mūla-āgama-s or upa-āgama-s. These chapters are very important, because many of them are not available in the main manuscripts of mūla- or upāgama-s. Thus they have to be collected to supplement the main texts. In this way Vol. III of Rauravāgama and of Ajitāgama – which contain chapters quoted in different manuals will be published soon.

In these descriptive catalogues the manuscripts are described in the order of the register numbers given as and when collected. So unless the catalogues are completed one will not be able to find out the number of mūlāgama-s, etc. and the number of paṭala-s available in our collection. For this reason we would like to state that we have mnuscripts of all the 28 mūla-āgama-s, of many upāgama-s, paddhati-s and commentaries by the well known Śaiva teachers. In the appendix, we give a list of these works. We also give the number of manuscripts of these texts available in our collection together with the maximum number of paṭala-s found. But we cannot say that all these texts are complete. Normally each āgama is supposed to have four pāda-s but except few, namely, Suprabheda, Kiraṇa, Mṛgendra, and Mataṅgapārameśvara, our manuscripts contain Kriyāpāda of the mūla-āgama-s, mainly.

The collection is very rich relating to main Śaiva āgama-s and we intend to publish one separate volume describing manuscripts which contain exclusively the texts of mūla-āgama-s, upāgama-s, commentaries and paddhati-s.

Here, as in the first volume, there is an index of texts described, an index of authors, a concordance chart and a comprehensive table of contents.

This volume has been prepared by Prof. V. Varadachari with the assistance of T. Ganesan. It has been seen through the press by N. R. Bhatt and B. Dagens together with Prof. Varadachari and T. Ganesan.

We greatfully thank the UNESCO, which has given a grant for printing this volume and also the following ones.

INTRODUCTION

This volume contains the description of a little more than 1000 texts, about 300 more than in the first volume. This increase in the number is partly due to 160 Mss; 60 more than in Vol. I described here and partly due to the large number of secondary texts and texts in Tamil.

Among the 53 Mss. and texts of the Mūlāgama described here, all but two are available only in one chapter (paṭala) and rarely more than one. Among the two which are held to be complete, the Sūkṣmaśāstra, which is another name for Sūkṃāgama, bears no. 237.7 and does not have full agreement with any of the Sūkṣma Mss. in IFI. The other text is called Kāmikāgama (no. 181.2) which contains three sections Sṛṣṭikāṇḍa, Sthitikāṇḍa and Saṃhārakāṇḍa. It is named, in the colophons, as Mahātantra and Mahāśaivāgama. Matters pertaining to jñāna and kriyā pāda-s are treated in 54 chapters, of which 30 are called paṭala-s, 9 as upadeśa-s and the rest have no name. There is no order in the treatment of topics. Tamil expressions are used here and there. Matters, not relatd to Śaivism are also treated. This Āgama, known by the name Kāmika, is not referred to in any work on Śaiva Āgama or Śaivism. This text thus appears to be spurious.

Among the other Āgama texts, which are available only in paṭala-s, the following deserve mention. The titles of such texts are Prāyaścittavidhi (no. 118.10); Anukarmavidhi (no. 118.30), a renovation rite; Pratiṣṭhā of Bāṇa, Aṅga and Sārvadeśika liṅga-s (nos. 178.4, 6, & 7); and Grahayajña (no. 172.2) already treated in no. 91.3, Vol. I. All these form part of the Kāmikāgama and have agreement with the printed edition S I A A.

The Yogajāgama is represented by a single text Mahotsavavidhi (no. 118.24) which includes Nityotsavavidhi also.

There are two texts from the Cintyāgama. One is Prāyaścittavidhi (no. 237.5) not traceable to any T. Ms. of IFI. The other is Saptaviṣuva (no. 162.26). This is also called by the name Cintyaviśva stated to be an upāgama of the Cintya but this is not mentioned as such in any work. This text is also called Acintyaviśvasādākhya.

Ten texts are from the Kāraṇāgama: some among them are Sakalaprokṣaṇa (no. 116.28), Ekonapañcāśatsnapanavidhi (no. 116.29), Śāntidiśāmūrtihoma (no. 116.35), Vimānasthāpana (no. 118.21) and Bālasthāpanavidhi (no. 221.2). Mūrtisthāpana (no. 118.33) deals with the installation of many forms of god of which Candraśekharamūrti could be mentioned here. Vāsanārcaṇa (no. 198.6) mentions the kinds of liṅga-s along with the results of worshipping them.

Among the six texts of the Sūkṣmāgama, Kalyāṇakarmavidhi (no. 116.7) is already described in no. 92.33 of Vol. I. Utsavaprāyaścittavidhi (no. 116.22) could not be traced to any text of IFI. Sūkṣmaśāstra (no. 237.7) has no agreement with any Mss. of IFI. Pañcadevatāpratiṣṭhā (no. 237.13) is incomplete and deals with the installation of the five deities Viṣṇu, Durgā, Gaṇeśa, Skanda and Maheśvara. The Sūkṣmāgama (no. 142) is contained in two Mss. RE.10779 & 10780. It deals with Pratiṣṭhā and Naimittika rites in two sections. The chapters are not marked regularly.

The Sahasrāgama (no. 193) is much damaged and it is hardly possible to find out its extent.

Five texts belong to the Aṃśumadāgama. Among them, Devyutsavavidhi (no. 116.24), which is also called Āṣāḍhotsava, has no agreement with the Mss. of IFI. Prāyaścittavidhi (no. 135) deals with the general and special aspects of expiation. Uḍupotsava (no. 197.11) has close agreement with that treated in the Vijayāgama (IFI.T.124 pp. 77-82). Maṭhapratiṣṭhā (no. 237.10) is incomplete.

There are texts which form part of Suprabheda. Among them, Suprabheda (no. 178.9) contains extracts from some Āgama-s on expiation. Installation of seven kinds of liṅga is also treated. Admixture of the procedures treated in one Tantra should not be mixed up with those in other Āgama-s. Taṭākapratiṣṭhāvidhi (no. 197.17) is not available in the printed edn.

Among the four texts of the Vijayāgama, Ārdrotsavavidhi (no. 116.25) is identical with the treatment of the same topic in no. 197.18. Kṛttikādīpotsava and Vighneśotsava-vidhi are the topics treated in nos. 197.13 and 197.16 respectively.

To the Niśśvāsāgama belongs the Navamyutsavavidhi (no. 116.26) which is also called Navarātrotsavavidhi.

The Makuṭāgama has two texts here. One is called Tantrāvatārapaṭala (136.2) which is indentical with no. 195.2 having the same name.

Kṛttikādīpanirṇaya (no. 197.12) is the only text to represent the Vimalāgama.

Among the two texts of Candrajñāna, one is Śivasthalādistava (no. 177.3) having verses which are not properly arranged. The sacred shrines of Śiva are praised. Greatness of the preceptor is dealt with in Gurumāhātmya (no. 177.4).

To the Nārasiṃha also called Śarvokta, belong three texts. Skandasvāmyutsava is dealt with in no. 116.23. Mahotsavavidhi (no. 116.39) and the text with no. 197.4 are indentical in treatment. However, there is a Nārasiṃha, an upāgama of the Kāmika. It is not possible to find out whether these texts form part of the mūlāgama or upāgama.

There is a single text called Pārameśvara (no. 116.17) which is supposed to deal with Āgamotpatti from its title. However what is treated here is the classification and extent of the Āgama-s and not the rise of the Āgama-s.

Two texts are attached to the Vātulāgama. The text with no. 118.15 deals with Aṣṭabandhanavidhi and the other, bearing no. 183.24 treats Puṇyāhavidhi.

There are sixteen texts belonging to the upāgama-s. Among them, two texts with nos. 177.1 & 177.2 are treated as Kāmikopabheda, evidently an upāgama of the Kāmika but their identity is yet to be proved. Both these texts deal with the rules and duties of castes and orders. Specially, the text (no. 177.2) deals with some additional matters like worship of the deity, the concepts of Advaita Vedānta, meditation and pollution. They bear the titles Varṇāśramācāravidhi and Varṇāśramācāracandrikā respectively. Mṛgendrāgama (no. 182.12) contains the jñānapāda. It is an upāgama of the Kāmika and is called Nārasiṃha (see. IFI.Pub.No. 23). The Bhīmasaṃhitā, which is an upāgama of the Kāraṇa, is stated to contain Siddhākhya (no. 237.12). What the word siddhākhya means is not made out. Siddhākhya is the name of the 23rd Mūlagama. Perhaps, śloka-s from these are taken and used here to treat the topic Naṣṭabimbasthāpana, installation of an idol that is lost and or replaced or regained later. Pādma, an upāgama of the Svāyambhu-vāgama treats Śāstṛpratiṣṭhā (no. 197.21). Ratnaliṅgapratiṣṭhāvidhi (no. 178.1) is the matter dealt with in the Rauravottarāgama (IFI.Pub.no.66, 1983), an upāgama of the

In Public domain. Digitization Muthulakshmi Research Academy

Raurava. There are three texts, which are attached to Pauṣkara, an upāgama of Pārameśvara. Among them, Pauṣkara (no. 168.4) contains the jñānapāda sections 1, 2 and 3 (śl. 107) (inc). Another text (no. 179.1) has the same name and topic as in no. 168.4 but it contains ch. 1 & 2 and breaks off at the beginning of the 3rd chapter. Pauṣkarapārameśvaravṛtti (no. 179.2) contains a commentary on the Pauṣkarāgama for ch. 1-6 in the jñānapāda. It is incomplete and is written in Sanskrit with Tamil words. Vāsiṣṭhasaṃhitā, (no. 134.7) an upāgama of the Aṃśumadāgama deals with Gāyatrīyantroddhāra. There are four texts with the name Vātulaśuddha, an upāgama of the Vātula. Vātulaśuddha (no. 161) contains the ten chapters of the Jñānapāda. The text with no. 182.1 bears the same name and is practically identical with it. The Maṭha-s of the Śaiva-s are mentioned and treated in the Vātulaśuddha (no. 157.13), under the title Ācāryamaṭhaniyama. Vātulaśuddhākhya (no. 175.20) contains the Tattvabhedapaṭala. It is incomplete. At the end, mention is made of prosodial instants and Mātṛkānyāsa.

There are thirteen texts, some of which have references, in their colophons, to some Āgama texts as their source but these could not be verified. In all likelihood, these could have been based on the portions of well-known Āgama-s and therefore are fit to be treated as manuals. Gaurīkalānyāsa (no. 116.13) is said to be from the Kāmika. Svāyambhuva is held to be the source for Ātmārthajīrṇoddhāravidhi (no. 118.35) treating Laya and Bhogāṅga-s. Candrajñāna and Lalita have inexplicably formed together and have the topic Muktisādhana (177.8). It is stated here that yogic practice is necessary to realise one's non-difference from Śiva. Nityapūjānukramaṇīsūtra (no. 183.4) is held to be contained in the Kāmikāgama. This is no index at all. This gives an outline of the daily worship to be done. It is in prose. Sarvāriṣṭaśānti (no. 183.36), a rite to control all evils, is held to belong to the Vātulāgama but it is not traceable to any text of the Vātula, in print or Ms. Utsavavidhi (no. 197.15) and Ṣaṣṭipūrtividhi (no. 263.3) are said to belong to the Vātula. Ṣaṭkarmapaṭala (258.2) is said to form part of the Candrajñānāgama.

Twelve texts belong to the Yāmala group. Bhadrakāḷīpratiṣṭhā (118.17) is part of Umāyāmala. To the Skandayāmala belong two texts (nos. 118.18 and 132.1), treating the same topic Bhadrakāḷīpratiṣṭhā. Treatment of this topic in no. 118.18 differs from that in no. 132.1. Rudrayāmala is represented in six texts. Pañcacakranirūpaṇa is the title of no. 134.13 and Pañcacakratadācārakramavidhi that of no. 134.13. Rājacakra, Mahācakra, Devacakra, Vīracakra and Paśucakra are the names of the five cakra-s.

Trailokyamohanakavaca, Cintāmaṇikavaca and Bījākṣaramālikāstotra are treated in the texts with nos. 260.1; 260.2 and 274.8 respectively.

There is a text called Yāmalatantra (no. 246.7). It contains ch. 34, 33 and 32 of this tantra. Devīrahasya is the source for this treatment as stated in ch. 32. Directions are given for drawing the yantra-s of certain deities.

There are some more texts which come under the upāgama group. These texts do not come under the Āgama kind. Some of them end their titles in the word tantra. The Kumāratantra has four texts. Texts with nos. 116.4. and 118.41 deal with Subrahmaṇyapratiṣṭhāvidhi. The texts with nos. 121.2 and 225.8 deal respectively with Skandaṣaṣṭhīvrata and Subrahmaṇyaikatriṃśatkalānyāsa.

To the Vināyakatantra belongs Vighneśvaramaṇṭapapūjāvidhi (no. 220).

The Pañcākṣararahasyatantra lays down the method of worshipping the deity at Chidambaram in the Cidambarapūjāvidhāna (no. 258.1).

Secondary texts

There are manuals called Kalpa-s. They prescribe the practices of the rituals. The Bhairavasaṃhitā (no. 187.6) forms part of the Vīrabhadramahākalpa. Nos. 162.4 & 5 contain texts that are together parts of Cidambarakalpa. Nyāsa, mantra and others are treated in the Mṛtyuñjayakalpa (nos. 162.21-24). Subrahmaṇyakalpa (nos. 164.1-8) treats Āvaraṇapūjā and contains the Nāmāvali, Āśīrvāda and other topics. Vināyakapūjākalpa (nos. 172.5-7) covers all the aspects of the worship of Vināyaka.

The procedural details regarding the conduct of the rituals are contained in the texts whose titles end with the word paddhati. The Kriyāpaddhati (nos. 146.1 & 4) contains the details for the worship of liṅga, snapana etc. There is another text with the same title (no. 208) which is concerned with temple worship, Aṣṭabandhana and others. The text with no. 203 is called Pratiṣṭhāpaddhati. Similar works with such titles are Pūjāpaddhati (no. 262.4), Prayogapaddhati (no. 275.2), Śaivāgamapaddhati (nos. 245, & 248), Sulocanapaddhati (no. 239.1) and others. Sulocanapaddhati deals with the installation of the main deity alone at Tirunelveli in the temple of Śiva. It is based on the Kāmikāgama and is incomplete. Īśānaśivaguru (before 1000 A.D.) composed a voluminous work 'a paddhati' called after his name. The text (no. 239.2) treats the matters of the Kriyāpāda and worship of svārtha and parārtha kinds. The Śaivāgamapaddhati of which two copies are available (nos. 245 & 248) is of great use for information on the rituals. No. 245 deals with Mahotsava, Saṁkocavidhi and others, while no. 248, a manual on the rituals, contains extracts from chapters of the Kāmika, Kāraṇa, Aṃśumat and other Āgama texts. Treatments in some are written in Tamil. Aghoraśivācāryapaddhati of Aghoraśivācārya (before 1200 A.D.), is of great value, as many manuals, that were written in the later periods, are based upon it, although the source is not named in them. It deals with all the aspects of the rituals of Śaivism. Aruṇācalapaddhati treats Vṛṣabhatāla (no. 118.23), a musical timing used in the temple at Tiruvaṇṇāmalai during festivals. Devatāvāhana is also included within this text.

Among the well-known and widely used works on Śaivism is the Kriyākramadyotikā of Aghoraśivācārya. There are thirty three texts of this work described in this volume. These are either complete or incomplete dealing with select topics.

The Sakalāgamasaṃgraha is a compendium containing extracts of the treatment of select topics taken from several Āgama texts as they are described there. There are many works with this name, each differing from the other in the selection of the topics and in choosing the Āgama text from among the several Āgama texts that are available. Some of the texts bearing the title Sakalāgamasaṃgraha are numbered as 228, 256 & 257.1. There is a text with the name Muhūrtanirṇaya (no. 118.42) devoted to the fixing up of the time for undertaking certain rituals and has extracts from the Kālaprakāśikā of Narasiṃha, Vīrāgama, Kālavidhāna and others. There is a text (no. 150) having the name Kriyādīpika associated with the Sakalāgamasaṃgraha. Another text (no. 204.1) with this name deals with Śivaliṅgapratiṣṭhāvidhi. For details regarding this, see note on no. 111.7, Vol. I.

Apart from these, there are independent writings on Śaivism. Mention is to be made of Vināyakabhaṭṭa's Nādasāra (no. 118.7) and Agnikārya (118.9). Vināyakabhaṭṭa belonged to Ādivaṭa in Jyotigocaranāgodbhavasthāna and flourished in the 16th century. Subrahmaṇyamaṇṭapupūjā is treated in the Nādasāra, perhaps a bigger work of which this topic forms a part.

The Siddhānta-s (settled doctrines) of Śaivism are found in many texts. Among them, the Siddhāntasārāvali of Trilocanaśambhu is in verse and divided into the well-known four pāda-s. It is available in print with Tamil translation. The text no. 145.1 contains the Sanskrit text of the Siddhāntasārāvali with a Sanskrit commentary by Anantaśambhu. It contains all the pāda-s except jñāna. Text no. 178.22 contains the Sanskrit commentary for śloka-s 6-12 in the text and is called Prāsādamantravyākhyā. Text no. 182.10 contains the text with a commentary in Maṇipravāla.

The Siddhāntaprakāśikā of Sarvātmaśambhu (no. 169), the preceptor of Aghoraśivācārya, discusses the settled conclusion of all schools of thought including the nāstika, and āstika kinds. The Siddhāntaśikhāmaṇi (no. 182.7) of Jñānaprakāśa has two chapters named Śivānanda and Samarasabhāva. References are found to writers like Sadyojyoti and others. The Siddhāntaratnākara (197.6) of unknown authorship deals with the installation of Mūlaśivaliṅga.

Prāsāda is the name given to the mantra of Śiva. It bestows favours on those who propitiate it. Prāsādaṣaṭślokī (nos. 146.2, 157.5and 178.16) is the name of the work which deals with this mantra in six śloka-s. Nos. 179.3 & 197.10 are the texts of Prāsādaṣaṭślokī with Sanskrit commentaries of unknown authorship. Prāsādacandrikā (no. 178.18) is the work of Aruṇadeva. The letter pra means knowledge about Śiva, sā means for attaining mokṣa and da the giver namely Śiva. This text offers the method of using this mantra. Samarasa means bare existence of everything with the disappearance of all differences. Viṣuva is said to bring about the union between soul, mind and vital airs. The Prāsādamantra has an exposition in the Prāsādamantravivaraṇa (no. 175.13).

Sarvajñānottara is held by Appayadīkṣita (C.1600 A.D.) as a Vaidika cum Śaiva text. Vide: – Śrīkaṇṭhabhāṣya on Brahmasūtra 2.2.38. This text is not included within Tantrāvatārapaṭala of any Āgama. This text under notice (no. 162.18) is called Svātmasākṣātkāropadeśaprakaraṇa. It forms part of the second chapter of the Vidyāpāda. Ātman, Śiva and Paramātman are to be meditated upon. Another text called Sarvajñānottara (no. 182.2) deals with yoga and jñāna and does not have much agreement with the printed edition.

The Śaivabhūṣaṇa (no. 194.4) of Paramānandayogin also called Pañcākṣarayogin (1638 A.D.) deals with the Śaiva-rituals. Another text (no. 190.35) of this work has a Tamil gloss. Tripadārthanirṇaya (182.4) is in prose and offers an exposition of pati, paśu and pāśa. Śaivaṣoḍaśikakriyā (no. 189) should deal with the sixteen purificatory rites, as the title goes but only some of them get treatment here. There is another text (no. 229.1) with this name. The Saṃhitāratnākara (no. 237.9) explains the method of fixing the time for any undertaking, like installation of deity.

The Bhuvanakośa (no. 181.1) is a work on the geography of the Bharatakhaṇḍa.

The Śivapūjāstava (no. 236.3) of Jñānaśambhu contains 47 verses describing the rituals of the worship of Śiva. Similarly, the Vyomavyāpistava (no. 182.9) is a poem by Rāmakaṇṭha II with a commentary of Vedajñāna. Śivayogaratna (no. 182.8) of Jñāna prakāśa deals with the practice of Śivayoga for attaining release. (For details, see IFI.Pub.no.53).

In Public domain. Digitization Muthulakshmi Research Academy

The Dīkṣādarśa (no. 171) contains only a section on Daśakārya. (See note on 171 for details). This is written in prose with citations from various works. (no. 194.2,5) Śaivasañjīvinī is a work on dīkṣā in 649 verses. Directions are given in Tamil. Citations are taken from Tattvasaṃgraha, Ṣaṭsahasra, Lakṣaṇasamuccaya and others.

The places that are sacred to Śiva and Viṣṇu are enumerated in the Sthalamālikā (no. 190.17).

The Sthāpanadīpikā (no. 197.7) and Śrīpratiṣṭhāvidhi (no. 197.8) are of the authorship of Śaivaśikhāmaṇibhaṭṭācārya. These texts are on installation.

The Śivajñānabodha (no. 173.10) is a treatise in Sanskrit on Śaivasiddhānta by Meykaṇṭatēvar. The text and commentary in Tamil upon this work is available in no. 167.4. Text no. 173.18 has the text with Maṇipravāla commentary.

There are indices for the items of rituals and acts to be gone through. They are fourteen in number in this volume. Some among them are related to Samayadīkṣā (no. 162.35) and Mahotsava (nos. 204.8, 204.15). There are indices (183.5 & 197.1) for the topics dealt with in the Kriyākramadyotikā and Aghoraśivācāryapūjā.

Text nos. 136.1 & 136.4, 145.2 and 195.4 , are Śivāgamādimāhātmyasaṃgraha by Jñānaśiva who brings out the greatness of the Śaiva Āgama-s. Greatness of a Śaiva is brought out in 23 śloka-s in Śaiva Mahimā (no. 177.5). The general traits of a Śaiva are stated in Śaivasāmānyalakṣaṇa (no. 177.6). The act of worshipping Śiva is hailed in Śivapūjāmāhātmya (no. 195.12) (inc). Greatness of the five syllabled mantra of Śiva is brought out in Pañcākṣaramahimā (no. 199.5). Text no. 204.12 describes the practices of the Śaiva Ācarya-s

Śākta texts

There are manuals and digests in the Śākta tantra. Some of the texts are called Kalpa and some tantra. Vīrabhadramahākalpa (nos. 187.5-9) contains mantra-s like Śyāmalā-vīrabhadramantra, Vīrabhadramahāyantra, Pakṣisāluvamantra and others. The Bhairavasaṃhitā contains this treatment. Aghorakalpa (no. 187.13-16) contains Aghora-kavaca, Astramantra and other topics. Cidambarakalpa (nos. 162.4 & 16) treats all the aspects of mantra and yantra of the deity at Cidambaram. Similar is the case with the Mṛtyuñjayakalpa (no. 162.21-24). The Ākāśabhairavakalpa is concerned with the temple at Chidambaram and treats many topics. The text Ākāśabhairavakalpa (no. 206.10) treats mantroddhāra and homa. Dattātreyakalpa (nos. 134.1-5) belongs to the Uḍḍāmareśvara-tantra, one of the 64 Śakta Āgama texts. The six acts like vaśīkaraṇa and others are generally the topics dealt with here. Mantra-s, yantra-s, dhyāna, stotra and Nāmāvali-s of Dattātreya are dealt with in this kalpa which includes the Dattātreyapūrvottaratāpinyu-paniṣat which belongs to the Atharvaveda. As with the Āgama tradition, the text no. 134.5 contains a specific kind of Sandhyāvandana called Dattātreyasandhyāvandana.

The method of drawing the cakra is contained in no. 134.6 together with the meaning in Telugu and is called Śrīcakraracanākrama. Text no. 134.10 treats the formation of Dhruvāṣṭakacakra in the Dhruvāṣṭakacakroddhāra. Worship of this will bring stability to the doer. The Bhuvaneśvarīkakṣapuṭayantroddhāra (no. 134.12) is written in Sanskrit and Tamil. The word kakṣapuṭa denotes the six acts like vaśīkaraṇa and others, the chief deity of worship being Bhuvaneśvarī.

Kaulādarśa (no. 254.3) of Viśvānandanātha gives a treatment to the Kaula, representing one of the forms of worship. Dakṣiṇācāra, the other kind of śākta worship, is dealt with in the Svacchandalalitabhairava (no. 163.2). The treatment here bears the Advaitic tinge. Pañcākṣararahasyatantra (no. 258.1), Cidambararahasya (no. 261.11), Puṇḍarīkapurāṇa, Arcanācakra (no. 261.12), all bear relevance to the deity in the temple at Chidambaram. The text (no. 272.1) Tripurāhṛdaya forms part of the Tripurātantra. This is a kind of prayer addressed to Lalitātripurasundarī. Mahātripurāsiddhānta (no. 246.5) forms ch. 30 to 34 of the Mahātripurāsiddhānta. It has subdivisions with the names Mātaṅgakalpa and Śyāmalākalpa. Of similar nature are Caṇḍikāhṛdaya (no. 206.8) and Devīdala (no. 206.9).

Yantralekhanavidhi (no. 174.18) is the name of the text, written in Tamil and Sanskrit. This is to be illustrated by the Trailokyamohanayantra (no. 174.2). Aśvārūḍhākrama (no. 261.17) describes Devī as mounted on the horse and has at the end homa and Aghamarṣaṇa mantra.

The mantra-s and yantra-s used in the Śākta system are intended to serve two purposes of offence and defence. To the former kind belong and Śulinīdurgāmantra (no. 174.7), Puruṣavaśyādimantra (no. 174.8), Vaidyamantra (no. 174.20), Vaśyamukhīmantra (174.17), Pratikriyāśūlinīmantra (no. 260.8) and others. Svarṇākarṣaṇabhairavamantra (no. 174.9), Devīmālāmantra (no. 260.4) included in the Khaḍgamālā, Pañcākṣaramantra (no. 261.19) for any deity and, Ajapāgāyatrīmantra (no. 157.6, 175.6 & 175.8) belong to the latter kind.

The method of worshipping god at night, according to the Pāśupata system, is treated in the Pāśupatakarmaniśipūjāpaddhati (no. 261.1). The author of this text is Pañcākṣaraśivācārya. Of similar kind are Pūjāpaddhati (no. 275.1) and Prayogapaddhati (no. 275.2). Text no. 174.1 contains the Dhvanimantra which is related to Sabheśvara and has many syllables as a mālāmantra. The Mātṛkāsarasvatīmantra (no. 175.7) is in honour of goddess Sarasvatī, held to be the source of mantra-s.

The routine life of a Śākta is described in the Āhnikavidhi (no. 260.7) by Vidyānandanātha. Nityakarma (no. 262.3) gives an outline of obligatory duties to be daily attended to. Gurupāramparya (no. 254.4) shows the exalted position which a preceptor occupies in the Śākta system.

The aspects of Śākta religion are reflected in stotra-s. Devīnāmastotra (no. 206.2) is based on the Lalitopākhyāna and contains 12, 16 and 25 names of Devī. Bālārṇastava (no. 206.3) is not found in the printed edition of the Rudrayāmala though it is held to be so. Nāmasārastava (nos. 246.3 & 11) glorifies the name of Devī. It is held to be part of Saubhāgyalakṣmīmahāmantra. Bījākṣaramālikāstotra (no. 274.8) is held to belong to the Rudrayāmala but it belongs to Oḍayāmala, which forms part of the Rudrayāmala. Devīstotra and Bālādhyāna form the beginning of this text. This is followed by fourteen śloka-s in praise of the Bījākṣara-s. In all likelihood, texts nos. 30.3 and 44.4 (Vol. I) form the introduction for this text.

Āgama made of worship

The Śaiva Āgama-s find their use in the worship in the temples and house. It is largely the external worship in temples that gets much greater treatment in them. The word āgama is analysed, in the text (no. 264.10) into a ga and ma, a standing for paśu, the living beings, ga for bondage, and ma for fixing up this in the mind. The text Āgamodbhava (no. 199.2) contains a selection of verses which indicate the origin of the Āgama-s. The verses are taken from the Suprabheda, Kāraṇa, Śataratnasaṃgraha and Tantrasāra. The text is incomplete. The text Āgamotpatti (no. 116.17) contained in the Pārameśvara Āgama, deals only with the extent of the Āgama-s. Classification is made of the Āgama-s as Daivika, Mānuṣa and Rākṣasa.

Śivapūjā is treated in more than ten texts. The noteworthy texts on this topic are Sakalāgamasaṃgraha (no. 117.1) dealing with the worship of earthern Śivaliṅga and texts bearing nos. 118.40 and 130.2. The former is called Pūjāvidhi and the latter Śivapūjāvidhi. Both are written in Maṇipravāla. Nityapūjā (no. 126.1) deals with the daily and obligatory worship of Śiva. Śivapūjā (no. 195.15) is a rare text. Antaryāga (no. 200.2), which involves Bhūtaśuddhi, deals with internal worship, a preliminary to the external kind of worship. Mānasollāsa (no. 236.6) has 17 verses dealing with the worship of Śiva. It is in the form of instructions addressed to one's own mind. Its authorship is unknown. It is not available elsewhere.

Māsapūjāvidhi (no. 122) is not found in the printed edn. though the text mentions the Suprabhedāgama as its source.

Sampatgaurīpūjāvidhāna (no. 118.43) enjoins the worship of Sampatgaurī, a form of Pārvatī for obtaining wealth.

Construction of temples, selection of stones for building, building the Bālālaya, the temple in miniature, making the idol and its installation receive treatment in the Ālayanirmāṇavidhi (no. 237.2), Śilāparigrahaṇavidhi (no. 221.3), Bālālayavidhi (no. 197.5), Devatānirmāṇa (no. 264.16) and Berapratiṣṭhā (no. 237.3) respectively. There are many kindred matters described in this volume such as Śivaliṅgapratiṣṭhāvidhi (nos. 197.19 & 255.4), Devīpratiṣṭhāvidhi (no. 183.32), Vighneśvarapratiṣṭhāvidhi (nos. 183.30 & 31) and Saurapratiṣṭhāvidhi (no. 183.29).

Worship could be conducted in a temple only by persons who get initiated by competent priests who conduct worship in temples. Such priests, who are also called Ācārya-s, should be respected by those who seek to receive initiation from them. This is treated in the texts (no. 162.34) called Guruvandana and Gurumāhātmya (no. 177.4) taken from the Candrajñāna and glorifying the line of Ācārya-s. The procedure for initiation and allied topics are treated in the Dīkṣādarśa (no. 171), Dīkṣāsaṃkalpa (no. 183.7), Dīkṣāpraśaṃsā (no. 183.25), Śaivasanjīvinī (nos. 194.2 & 5) Viśeṣadīkṣāvidhi (no. 255.1) and Nirvāṇadīkṣāvidhi (no. 255.2). On the completion of initiation, the pupil, who receives initiation, is raised to the status of Ācārya. This matter is treated in the Ācāryābhiṣekavidhi (no. 255.3), a Tamil rendering of a work, written originally in Sanskrit.

Mantra-s are to be used during the act of worship. The person, who gets initiated, will have to observe certain rules for receiving the mantra. This matter receives treatment in the text Mantragrahaṇaniyama (no. 262.2). Text no. 117.2 contains the Gāyatrīmantra-s for several deities. The Prāsādamantra (no. 121.3) and others are treated in nos. 264.19-21. Some texts use Tamil expressions while employing the mantra-s such as, Śyāmalāvīrabhadra (no. 178.23) and others (no. 261.18). The yantra-s play an important role in the temple. Most of the yantra-s have the influence of the Śākta discipline. Gāyatrīyantroddhāra (no. 134.7), Mahāgaṇapatisarvakāryasiddhiyantroddhāra (no. 134.8) and Pañcacakranirūpaṇa (no. 134.13) could be cited here.

The act of imparting power through nyāsa is dealt with in a number of texts. Among the texts which treat this, the following deserve notice. Gaurīkalānyāsa (no. 116.13), Tattvanyāsa (no. 116.34) containing explanations in Tamil, Mātṛkānyāsa (no. 116.36) with internal (antaḥ) and external (bahiḥ) kinds, Sadāśivatattvanyāsa (no. 116.37) to be made in fire; Daśavidhanyāsa (no. 199.3) and Subrahmaṇyanyāsa (no. 243.2) based on the Kumāratantra. Texts with nos. 118.14; 144.2 & 199.1 and others contain collections of nyāsa-s. Nyāsavidhi (260.5) lays down the procedure for doing nyāsa.

Meditation is to be done on the mantra-s. It varies from deity to deity. Text no. 140 mentions several forms of Śiva, Gaṇapati, Subrahmaṇya, Annapūrṇā and others giving the śloka-s for their meditation. Ajapāgāyatrī is enjoined for meditation in nos. 175.6; 175.8 and 182.5. Text (nos. 141.1-3) mention 16 forms of Subrahmaṇya, 16 forms of Gaṇapati and 25 forms of Maheśvara for meditation. Of similar kind are the texts (no. 147) called Devatādhyāna and no. 172.17 called Mūrtidhyāna.

Apart from these acts of worship, the priests have to offer oblations into the fire which act is called Agnikārya (no. 118.9) and homa (140.7). This volume contains six texts with the name Agnikārya.

The proper time for the installation of the idol is to be fixed according to the treatment of this topic in the Kriyādīpikā (no. 118.42) and Saṃhitāratnākara (no. 237.9). The Vimānasthāpana (no. 118.21) belongs to the Kāraṇāgama and treats the installation of the Vimāna, structure around and above the sanctum sanctorum. Installation of liṅga or idol is treated in the Mūrtisthāpana (no. 118.33), forming part of the Kāraṇāgama, and Śivaliṅgapratiṣṭhāvidhi (no. 162.19) of Īśānaśivācārya. The marks of liṅga are contained in Liṅgalakṣaṇa (nos. 178.2 & 8). Installation of liṅga-s of a general kind, Bāṇaliṅga, Aṅgaliṅga, Sārvadeśikaliṅga and Ratnaliṅga are treated in texts with nos. 178.3, 4, 6, 7 and 1 respectively. Aghoraśivācārya's Śivaliṅgapratiṣṭhāvidhi (no. 183.12) is the widely used text in installation.

Worship is to be done to the deity everyday which is treated in the text called Nityapūjāvidhi (no. 242 & 257.1). Among the kinds of giving bath to the deity (snapana), this volume contains Ekonapañcāśatsnapanavidhi (no. 116.29) belonging to the Kāraṇāgama and to be carried out with 49 pitchers.

Festivals are undertaken in temples once in a year and are called Mahotsava, which are celebrated for several days ranging from one to twenty one (no. 116.21). Mahotsavavidhi is treated in the Yogajāgama (no. 118.24) and in the Nārasiṃha (no. 116.39 & 197.4). Gaṇeśotsavavidhi (118.26), forming part of the Svāyambhuvāgama, has no agreement with T.Mss. of IFI. Sandhyāvāhana and Devatāvāhana form part of the Mahotsavavidhi (no. 118.27) treated in the Kriyākramadyotikā. Śivotsavapaddhati (no. 197.2) deals with the festival conducted in honour of Śiva. Skandasvāmin's festival is treated in the Nārasiṃha (no. 116.23) and that of Devī (no. 116.24) is said to be taken from the Aṃśumattantra. Utsavavidhi (no. 197.15) is held to form part of the Vātula. An incomplete account of the festival for 18 days is contained in the text (no. 197.20) called Aṣṭādaśadinotsava. Dhvajārohaṇavidhi (no. 128.1) has similarity to the treatment in the Kriyākramadyotikā and Bherītāḍana forms part of the Mahotsavapaddhati (no. 223).

Festivals are also conducted daily and on certain occasions. The text Nityotsavavidhi (no. 197.14) belonging to the Kāraṇāgama represents the former kind. To the latter belong Uḍupotsava (no. 197.11) from the Aṃśumat, Kṛttikādīpotsava (no. 197.13) from the Vijayāgama, Ārdrāvratotsava (no. 116.25 & 197.18) from the Vijayāgama, and Navamyutsava (no. 116.26) from Niśśvāsa, also called by the name Navarātrotsava and (no. 267.1) called Mahānavamīpūjā.

The text Rāmanāthacūrṇikā (nos. 200.1 & 219.1) is sung at the commencement of the festival in the temple at Ramesvaram. Blessings are showered on the deity at the conclusion of the festival for the continued conduct of festivals and well-being of the temple and locality. These are contained in texts (no. 164.8 & 172.1) called by the name Āśīrvacana and Āśīrvāda.

Expiatory rites (prāyaścitta) are described in many of the texts. The method of undertaking this is described in the Prāyaścittavidhi (no. 118.10) from the Kāmika and (no. 135) from the Aṃśumattantra. Homa-s with the names Śānti, Diśā and Mūrti are described in the Kāraṇāgama (nos. 116.31-33 & 35). Utsavaprāyaścittavidhi (no. 116.22 & 149) from the Sūkṣma deals with the acts of expiation for the lapses that occur during the conduct of festivals. The lapses, that occur during daily worship, are treated in the Śivapūjāprāyaścitta (no. 229.6) and Nityapūjāprāyaścitta (no. 237.4) together with the directions for their expiation. The rules for expiation as laid down in the Āgama-s are treated in the text Āgamaprāyaścitta (no. 240). Pavitrārohaṇa (no. 237.6) describes the Pavitrotsava, a major expiation rite to be undertaken once in a year for the lapses and sins committed during the year.

The structures in the temple, idol and liṅga may become unfit for use with the passage of time through dilapidation and breakage. On such occasions, renovation is required to be done. This may take the forms of Aṣṭabandhanavidhi and Jīrṇoddhāraṇa (for an account of these, see notes under nos. 13.1 & 2, Vol. I). Aṣṭabandhanavidhi (no. 118.15) is said to form part of the Vātulāgama, but this could not be traced to any text or Ms. of this Āgama. Renovation of the liṅga or idol worshipped in the house is treated in the Ātmārthajīrṇoddhāravidhi (no. 118.35) and is held to form part of the Svāyambhuvāgama. Replacement of an idol in the place of the lost one gets treated in the Naṣṭabimbasthāpana (no. 237.12) forming part of the Bhīmasaṃhitā. Renovation of the temple is dealt with in the Ālayajīrṇoddhāra (no. 116.20.)

Routine life of a Śaiva

The daily life of a Śaiva is governed by the rules laid down in the Śaiva Āgama-s. The first section in the Kriyākramadyotikā of Aghoraśivācārya is devoted to the treatment of this matter which is called Nityakarmavidhi. This topic is treated in the text Nityakarmavidhi (no. 121.1) of the Kriyākramadyotikā and in the Nityakarmānuṣṭhānavidhi (no. 118.39) of unknown authorship. The text Anuṣṭhānavidhi (no. 165.7) treats this matter in Tamil using Sanskrit words. Installation of liṅga for personal worship is treated in the

In Public domain. Digitization Muthulakshmi Research Academy

Ātmārthacalaliṅgapratiṣṭhāvidhi (no. 183.28) by Candraśekharabhaṭṭāraka of Tiruvarur. The Ātmārthaśivapūjāvidhi (no. 215) deals with worship of Śiva in the house.

Observances (vrata-s) that are undertaken by an individual are treated in the Vrata-viṣaya (no. 172.18). The time or period for undertaking them is treated in Vratanirṇaya (no. 176.4).

Yogic practice is recommended for steadying the mind in the Yogasaṃgraha (no. 236.5). Soul's condition in the released state is treated in the Muktātmanirūpaṇa (no. 177.7) in 57 śloka-s.

The Kriyākramadyotikā (no. 172.4) offers the procedure for performing the final rites for a Śaiva. Texts under the name Antyeṣṭi (188.1-5) deal with this matter. These rites differ slightly from each other according as they are to be performed to a Samayin, Putraka and other kinds of śaiva-s. Those for the Samayin are dealt with in the Samayāntyeṣṭividhi (no. 196). Cūrṇotsava (nos. 188.2, 4 & 205.1, 4) forms part of Antyeṣṭi.

Śrāddha, the annual ceremony, which is to be performed, is done according to the Śaivāgama principles and is called by the name Śaivaśrāddhavidhi (nos. 190.25, 198.5 & 263.10).

Miscellaneous topics

There are certain topics too brief to be treated, as manuals or digests. To these belong the Pañcaśayanakalpana (no. 116.5) enjoining the arrangement of bed for god with feathers, cotton, hairs of rams, hides and silk fibres. The utensils which are required for performing homa (installation) are enumerated and dealt with in the Pratiṣṭhopakaraṇa (no. 154.2). Saptaviṣuva (no. 178.20) dealing with the seven kinds of dissolutions is said to belong to the Cintyaviśva. (For viṣuva and its kinds, see note on this text.) All those materials that find use in the Kriyāpāda are treated in the Kriyopakaraṇa (no. 172.3). Maṇḍūkaparamaśāyipada described in the text no. 129.2 describes the Vāstupuruṣa on the basis of the Prāsādamantra. The syllables of this mantra are made to occupy one in each of the 81 squares which are drawn to form a diagram. Pañcapāṇḍavalakṣaṇa (no. 139.5) gives the features which the images of the Pañcapāṇḍavas are to take for installation. The fire-pits (Kuṇḍa) and liṅga are described, with reference to their features, in nos. 140.7 and 178.2 respectively. Nirmālya is dealt with in no. 175.10. Pavitra, Darbha, Māsapūjā, Somāskandadhyāna and others are treated in the text no. 118.28. The text with no. 162.48 enumerates the weapons of Śiva and the places sacred to Śiva.

Stotra-s

There are many texts in this volume which contain the stotra-s some of which have been described in Vol. I. The text with no. 172.12 is Śivastotra in 37 ½ śloka-s which are identical with those found in Aghoraśivācārya's Kriyākramadyotikā pp. 120-122, Chidambaram edn. The deity is stated here to have taken its abode in a place called Kālañjara. Another stotra of Śiva is Nakreśvarastotra (no. 250) in 105 verses and this deity is stated to be on the Parvatamalai near Tiruvaṇṇāmalai in the North Arcot Dt. of Tamil Nadu, India. Vyomavyāpistava vyākhyā (no. 182.9) is the poem by Rāmakaṇṭha in praise of Vyomavyāpipadamantra. It has a commentary by Vedajñāna. The Viśveśvarādistotra (no. 146.6) is in praise of Viśveśvara (Śiva) and Lokāmbikā (Pārvatī). There is a Śivastotra (no. 195.6) composed by Upamanyu. Śivastotra (no. 195.9) is of unknown authorship and it contains eight śloka-s. Śivānandalaharī (no. 195.7) is a work of Śaṃkara. Śivapāhyaṣṭaka (no. 202.2), the work of Abhinavanṛsiṃhabhāratīsvāmin has the refrain śiva pāhi mām at the end of each śloka. The deity at Tiruvarur in the Tanjore Dt. of Tamil Nadu, India, is praised in the Tyāgarājāṣṭaka (no. 222.4). The Mārgabandhustotra (no. 224.2) is the work of Appayadīkṣita (1600 A.D.) seeking the favour and guidance of Śiva while one undertakes the journey. Aṭṭālasundarāṣṭaka (no. 225.16) and Sundareśvarastotra (no. 225.19) are in praise of the Lord at Madurai. The latter is a rare text. Ākhyāṣaṣṭi (no. 235.4) is a stotra in praise of Śiva containing 63 śloka-s and composed by Śridhara Veṅkaṭeśa, well-known as Ayyāvāḷ whose other work Dayāśataka (no. 235.3) intends to seek Śiva's mercy. The Āmnāyastava (no. 235.5) is in praise of Śiva and is of unknown authorship. The names of Śiva are taken from the Āgama-s and are composed to form the Āgamastotra (no. 225.12).

The syllables constituting Śivamantra are extolled in the Śaivapañcākṣarīstotra (no. 162.30). Of similar nature is the Pañcākṣaramālikāstotra (no. 182.6) by Haradatta who wrote this to establish Śiva's superiority over Viṣṇu. Mantramātṛkāpuṣpamālāstava (no. 190.30) is the work of Śaṃkara wherein the sources of mantra are offered to Lalitā as flowers. Mārkaṇḍeyastotra (no. 266.2 & 3) is in praise of Śiva.

The Śivasthalādistotra (no. 177.3) belonging to the Candrajñānāgama is in the form of verses glorifying Śiva.

Bālāmbikāstava (no. 190.19), Kāmākṣīstava (no. 190.29) and Tripurasundarīstavarāja (no. 260.3) are in praise of Devī. Saundaryalaharī (nos. 231 & 234) of Śaṃkara has the commentary of Lakṣmīdhara. Taṭātakāstotra (no. 225.17) is in praise of the goddess at Madurai.

Vināyaka is praised in two works with the titles Gaṇeśāṣṭaka (no. 225.3) and Vināyakastotra (no. 119.1), a rare text. Skandastotra (no. 195.5) is a rare text. Cidambarāṣṭaka (no. 261.15) is in praise of the dance of Naṭarāja.

There are texts with the titles ending in the title Kavaca, meaning an armour protecting the reciter of them from evil. The Sammelanakavaca (no. 205.6) is in honour of God and Goddess at Chidambaram. There are a number of Kavaca-s on the planets (no. 191), Aghorakavaca (no. 187.15) and others, most of which are held to form part of the Purāṇa-s like Skānda.

Nāmastotra & Nāmāvali-s

Many of these texts have been described in Vol. I. These contain the 1008, 108 or 18 or less number of the names of the deities in whose honour the nāmāvalī-s have been composed. Text no. 162.1 called Śivasahasranāmāvali is a rare and important text. The Āgamatriśatīnāmāvali (no. 162.20) contains the 300 names of Śiva taken from the Āgama-s. Other stotra-s are Rudrāṣṭottaraśatanāmāvali (no. 274.6), Śivadvādaśanāmastotraślokāvali (nos. 156.4 & 162.10) and Śivāṣṭottaraśatanāmāvali (no. 162.32). The last mentioned work is a rare text.

Śāstṛdevatā is glorified in a text (no. 162.33) different from the well-known work and in no. 251.2, bearing the title Śāstraṣṭottaraśatanāmāvali and stotra. Text no. 251.1 contains Śāstṛsahasranāmāvali.

Subrahmaṇyāṣṭottaraśatanāmāvali (no. 264.26) is a rare text. Sixteen names of Subrahmaṇya are glorified in the Subrahmaṇyaṣoḍaśanāmaślokāvali (172.8). The text with nos. 157.11 & 165.9 contains the Subrahmaṇyaṣaḍakṣaratriśatīnāmastotra which has the names of the deity made up of the Ṣaḍakṣara mantra.

The text with no. 162.31 is Pañcākṣaramahāmantrāṣṭottaraśatanāmāvali made up of the syllables of the Pañcākṣaramantra. Aṣṭāviṃśatyāgamanāmāvali (no. 157.9) contains the names of the 28 Śaivāgama-s.

Similarly, Gaṇeśa, (no. 235.1), Durgā (no. 197.23) and others have many nāmāvali-s.

Purāṇa-s and Māhātmya-s

There are some sources for the śaiva concepts of religion and Paurāṇic accounts related to certain anecdotes, temples and others. These are called Māhātmya-s. Greatness of the river Tāmraparṇī flowing in the Tirunelveli Dt. Tamil Nadu, India, is brought out in the texts with nos. 232 & 233.1. Devīmāhātmya (no. 143.4) is treated in the Mārkaṇḍeya Purāṇa. Hālāsyamāhātmya (nos. 252.1, 249 & 268) forms part of the Skandapurāṇa. Gaṇeśasahasranāmamāhātmya is treated in the text with no. 235.2 and Śivapūjāmāhātmya in no. 195.12. Life of a śaiva devotee Sananda is dealt with in no. 261.3 and forms part of the Skandapurāṇa.

The Puṇḍarīkapurāṇa is the basis for the development of Śaivism at Chidambaram in the South Arcot Dt. Tamil Nadu, India. Bhaviṣyottarapurāṇa (no. 162.11), Brahmakaivarta (no. 191.7), Padma (no. 162.15) and Brahmāṇḍapurāṇa (no. 266.8) form the sources for narrations and stotra-s. The texts based on these are numerous and may be looked into in the index.

Works on general topics

Some of the texts described in this volume treat matters that do not pertain to Śaiva-Āgama. Some of them are based on Dharmaśāstra-s and other branches of Sanskrit literature. Here are found texts on Rudrapraśna (no. 139.3), Taittirīyasaṃhitā (no. 263.15) and Garuḍopaniṣat (no. 260.11). Āsīrvādamantra-s, are found in (no. 217.1). The Bhagavadgītā (no. 191.1), its māhātmya (no. 191.3), Rāmānuja's Śaraṇāgatigadya (no. 191.2) and Gopikāgītā (no. 263.18) are some of the religious texts.

Didactic sayings are found in no. 190.18 which contains an incomplete text of Bhartṛhari's Nītiśataka. A lexicon is available in no. 180.14 called Nānārthavargaṭīkā with Tamil meaning. The Nadīstotra (no. 266.8) is in praise of the sacred rivers and forms part of the Brahmāṇḍapurāṇa. 108 names of Devasenā are contained in the Devasenāṣṭottaraśatanāmastotra (no. 165.11).

Texts in Tamil

The Śaivasiddhānta is based upon fourteen Siddhānta texts in Tamil and on the Śaivāgama-s. Besides, the Tēvāram of the Śaiva saints Tiruñāṇacampantar, Appar and Sundarar has served as a strong foundation for the development and growth of Śaivism in Tamil Nādu. The work Civañāṇacittiyār (no. 173.11) by Aruḷnanti belongs to the 13th century. It contains the Siddhānta (cupakkam). The illustrations for the Siddhānta are given in text with no. 175.14. This has a Sanskrit commentary by Vedajñānaśivācārya.

116.4 SUBRAHMAṆYAPRATIṢṬHĀVIDHI
(Kumāratantra)

This text is mainly in prose. The colophon on fol. 153b (l.4) reads: iti kumāratantre kriyāpāde dvitīyapaṭalaḥ. As no tantra or āgama is available in prose, this colophon may perhaps suggest that the procedure of the ritual in prose is based on this section of Kumāratantra. As such, this seems to be an independent manual based on the Kumāratantra. However, it does not have any close likeness with any paṭala in the printed edition of the Kumāratantra, (Madras edition, 1915 Grantha).

There are several nyāsa-s, such as Pañcabrahmanyāsa, Ṣaḍaṅganyāsa, Aṣṭatriṃṣatkalānyāsa, Antarmātṛkānyāsa, Bahirmātṛkānyāsa, Ṣaḍadhvanyāsa, etc. Here this text gives the method of doing Śrīkaṇṭhamātṛkā (nyāsa) in a special method. This has some agreement with IFI. T. 460 (1). This nyāsa is to be done by uttering the names

Āgamotpatti

This text gives a very brief account of how Āgama-s are revealed. The title is given on fol. 230b in the margin and occurs on fol. 231a. However, what this text contains is the extent of the Āgama texts and the names of the Āgama-s. From fol. 230b up to fol. 231a, the text contains the classification of the Āgama-s into groups, which are to be utilised for the consecration and worship of liṅga-s classified as devika (worshipped by goddess),

116.19 ĀCĀRYAKRAMA

This text offers a brief account of the guru in the Śaiva system. The greatness of the Ācārya and the need to respect him are brought out in this text. The guru and his family members are all to be respected. The status of a guru is said to be superior to that of Śiva. Initiation (dīkṣā) gets special stress.

This text, given as the 33rd chapter of the Sūkṣmāgama, gives the procedure for carrying out the rites of atonments for lapses that occur in the festivals. This is not traceable to any IFI. Mss. of the Sūkṣmāgama.

116.23 NĀRASIṂHA
Skandasvāmyutsavavidhi

This text deals with the method of celebrating the festival of Skanda. The colophon on fol. 288b mentions this topic as forming part of Nārasiṃha, a Pratiṣṭhātantra. Nārasiṃha is told to be another name for the Mṛgendrāgama, an upāgama of the Kāmikāgama. In his commentary (p. 9. upodghāta, Mṛgendrāgamavṛtti, Devakkottai edn.) on the Mṛgendrāgama, Nārāyaṇakaṇṭha writes that Śiva instructed the Śaiva doctrines to Indra who took the form of Narasiṃha and hence the name Mṛgendra. However the text we have here does not pertain to the Mṛgendra. The 25th Śaivāgama which is generally named Śarvokta or Sarvokta is also named as Nārasiṃha in some texts. Perhaps this part pertains to this text. The Nārasiṃha Āgama is not available anywhere in full. Some chapters are available in IFI. They are 1. T. 132, Skandaśaktipratiṣṭhā, pp. 72-80; 2. T. 811, Skandotsavavidhi pp. 42-46; 3. T. 980, Prāyaścittavidhi pp. 282-286 & Prāyaścittavidhi pp. 287-291; 4. T. 124, Śaktyutsavavidhi pp. 82-115; 5. n° 116.37 Mahotsavavidhi. The text under notice agrees fully with the treatment of this topic in T. 811.

116.24 AṂŚUMATTANTRA
Devyutsavavidhi

This text is said to be a chapter of the Aṃśumattantra; it describes the Devyutsava that is to be celebrated in the Āṣāḍha month when the star is Pūrvaphalgunī; the alternative title Āṣāḍhapūrotsava is given in the margin of the fol. 289a. Aṃśumattantra texts (IFI. T. 3, 4, 158, 273 & 745) contain the description of the Āṣāḍhapūrotsava which, however, has no agreement with the contents of this text.

116.25 VIJAYĀGAMA
Ārdrotsavavidhi

This text forms part, as the colophon tells, of the Vijayāgama. It describes the festival which is celebrated in the month of Mārgaśīrṣa on the day marked by the star "Ārdrā".

Vijayāgama is the 11th Mūlāgama and the first Mūlāgama belonging to the Raudra kind. It has eight upāgamas (Udbhava, Saumya, Aghora, Mṛtyunāśana, Kaubera, Mahāghora, Vimala and Vijaya). The Vijayāgama has not so far appeared in print. IFI.

In Public domain. Digitization Muthulakshmi Research Academy

has some manuscripts of Vijayāgama e.g., T. 124, 320a, 625 & 1013; T. 829 & 1022 contain some paṭala-s pertaining to Vijayāgama. The treatment of the Ārdrotsava is available in T. 124 & T. 829.

The treatment in T. 124 has full agreement with that contained in the text under notice, with the colophon running as iti vijaye pratiṣṭhātantre ārdrāvratapaṭalaḥ. Treatment of this topic in IFI. T. 829 pp. 133-137 is of a different kind (it has the following colophon:– iti vijayatantre ārdrāvidhipaṭalassamāptaḥ /). It is not known whether this forms part of the mūlāgama or of the upāgama Vijaya. T. 829 has two other chapters said to form part of the Vijayāgama.

116.26 NIŚŚVĀSA
Navamyutsavavidhi

This text is given as the 30th chapter of the Niśśvāsapratiṣṭhātantra. Niśśvāsāgama is the 12th Mūlāgama and the second Āgama of the Rudra kind. This topic is not found in any of the texts of the Niśśvāsāgama of the IFI. T. 17, 127, 135 & 150. It explains how to conduct Navarātrotsava. From the colophon and the opening lines, the title is Navamyutsava or Navamyārādhana but we have the alternative title Navarātryutsava on fol. 296a in the margin.

Beginning

116.28 KĀRAṆĀGAMA (PŪRVA-)
Sakalaprokṣaṇavidhi

This text, given in the colophon as a chapter of the kriyāpāda of the Kāraṇapra-tiṣṭhātantra, corresponds to ch. 73 of the printed Pūrvakāraṇa. It deals with the con-secration of the images (sakala) of Śiva. Some verses of the printed text are missing here.

116.29 KĀRAṆĀGAMA (PŪRVA-)
Ekonapañcāśatsnapanavidhi

This text, according to its colophon, is the 49th chapter of the kriyāpāda of the Kāraṇapratiṣṭhātantra (chapter 37 of the printed Pūrvakāraṇa), but with variant readings.

In Public domain. Digitization Muthulakshmi Research Academy

It deals with the procedure for giving bath to the deity with waters consecrated in 49 pitchers.

116.30 PRĀYAŚCITTAVIDHI

This text lays down the procedure for doing the rite of expiation. The name of the text is given as Prāyaścitta in the margin of fol. 314a. The work begins with a detailed account of prāyaścitta and its kinds and the way of undertaking it. The colophon on fol. 316a gives the name of the work as Diśāhoma, which is one of the expiation ceremonies.

116.32 DIŚĀHOMA

This text contains an account of the Diśāhoma. The opening line mentions "atha śānti homaḥ" which is stated, in the words preceding this, to have got completed by stating "iti śāntihomaḥ". Diśāhoma seems to begin only with this line. Both these rituals are expiation ceremonies. Four pavilions are to be constructed one in each of the four quarters of the temple. Homa-s are performed with the Aśvattha, Udumbara, Vaṭa and Palāśa branches respectively in these pavilions. Hence the name Diśāhoma. Vide:– Kāraṇa (Pūrva) ch. 144 and Raurava II (IFI. Pub. 18-2) pp. 183-184. Treatment contained in the text under notice is different and it agrees with IFI. T. 697 pp. 47-49; & T. 349 pp. 275-278.

116.33 SAṂHITĀHOMAVIDHI

This text contains the procedure for Saṃhitāhoma, a rite to be performed for avoiding all evils. It is one of the rites of expiation. Vide:– IFI. T. 293 pp. 176-177. This is to be done with Pañcabrahma and Ṣaḍaṅgamantra-s which are called Saṃhitāmantra-s. Hence the name of this homa.

116.35 KĀRAṆĀGAMA
Śāntidiśāmūrtihoma

Similar to n° 92.6 & 92.8. This text, ascribed, according to the colophon, to the Kāraṇa, deals with three kinds of homa-s which are of the nature of expiatory rites. It corresponds roughly to a part of the chapter 144 of the printed Pūrvakāraṇa (pp. 710-713) but with numerous variant readings and missing verses.

116.36 MĀTṚKĀNYĀSA

This text contains the treatment of Mātṛkānyāsa. This topic is treated under two heads namely, Antarmātṛkānyāsa (fol. 330a-331b) and Bahirmātṛkānyāsa (fol. 331b-333a). The letters of the alphabet are called Mātṛkā. The Antarmātṛkānyāsa is concerned with this process by which the Mātṛkā-s are placed in the six cakra-s within the body. The Bahirmātṛkānyāsa is the nyāsa of the letters on the various parts of the body. The treatment of this topic here is similar to that in IFI. T. 354 pp. 96-97; Tanjore Supp. n° 701 and GOML. D. 5872. For details, see NCC I p. 226.

117.1 SAKALĀGAMASAṂGRAHA
Parārthaśivapūjāvidhi

This text contains the procedure for doing Śivapūjā for others' sake, that is; in temples. There is some difference in the contents and order in the treatment of topics among the several works which have the same name. It is to be presumed that attempts should have been made by several scholars at different places and at different periods to prepare a compendium of this kind as per practice followed at that period in these particular temples with the result that one finds some difference among these Mss.

The colophon of fol. 113a runs thus:– iti sakalāgamasaṃgrahe parārthaśivapūjāvidhis-samāptaḥ. Kāmika, Yogaja, Kāraṇa, Ajita, Sūkṣma and other Āgama-s are frequently cited.

118.7 NĀDASĀRA
by Vināyakabhaṭṭa
Subrahmaṇyamaṇṭapapūjāvidhi

This text offers the procedure for worshipping the pavilion of Subrahmaṇya. The author's name is given in the colophon as Vināyakabhaṭṭa of Ādivaṭa, in Jyotigocaranāgodbhavasthāna. This author lived in the 16th century. This work forms part of the Nādasāra, probably a bigger work. Treatment in this text is similar to that in IFI. T. 349 pp. 205-234 but the latter has no mention of Vināyakabhaṭṭa or Nādasāra.

118.15 VĀTULĀGAMA
Aṣṭabandhanavidhi

Similar to n° 13.1.

Aṣṭabandhana consists in cementing the space between the pedestal and the image with the powdered ingredients of soft cotton, ghee of buffalo, granules of sand, lac, beeswax, resin, decoction of red-ochre, pebbles and jaggery.

For a different version, see Kāraṇāgama(Pūrva) printed edn. p. 626 śloka-s 3b & 4a.

This treatment forms part of the Vātulāgama, as made out from the colophon on fol. 128a. IFI. T. 99 contains a treatment similar to this on pp. 310-313 but it has no agreement with this text, though the expression Vātulāṣṭabandhanam occurs at the beginning (p. 310). Similarly, this does not agree with IFI. T. 368a. The colophon on p. 313 takes the source to be Vātulabheda, an upāgama of the Vātulāgama, IFI. T. 751, has the colophon, iti vātule, on p. 112 but has no agreement with this text.

118.16 ŚĀSTRADHIVĀSANAVIDHI

Adhivāsana is a preparatory rite performed for an image or idol which is, kept for this purpose, to stay in water, milk or bed and other specified places to make it fit to get the presence of the deity through prescribed rituals. The name Śāstṛsthāpana is written on the margin of fol. 130a but the text does not contain this topic. This is left incomplete, the corresponding portion of which is on p. 6, l.9 of IFI. T. 242a. There are two more lines in the text under notice which are not traceable to IFI. T. 242a.

Treatment of Samprokṣaṇavidhi in the text under notice in fols. 134a is almost similar to that on p. 15 of IFI. T. 242a where the colophon refers to the treatment as based on the Pādmasaṃhitā.

118.17 BHADRAKĀLĪPRATIṢṬHĀVIDHI
(Umāyāmala)

Umāyāmala, of which the installation of the image of Bhadrakālī forms a part, is one among many yāmala texts, such as Skanda (see 118.18), Rudra, Brahmā, Viṣṇu, Yama, Indra and others. The treatment, contained in this text under notice, agrees with IFI. T. 953, pp. 67-74: fols. 135a-137a are the same as the passages in pp. 67-73; the remaining portion is not traceable to IFI. T. 953. The last two śloka-s in the text are found in continuation of l.11 (of p. 73 of IFI. T. 953). The further passages in IFI. T. 953 are not found in the text. The colophon in IFI. T. 953, p. 74 refers to the source for this treatment as the Umāyāmala.

118.20 ASTRADEVAPRATIṢṬHĀ

This text gives the procedure for installing the Astradeva namely the Triśūla in the middle of which the form of the concerned deity is represented. If the astradevatā is for Śiva, then in the middle śūla, there is to be Candraśekharamūrti, or Āliṅganacandraśekharamūrti or Vṛṣabhāntikamūrti or Pāśupatamūrti. If it is Devī, the form of the concerned Devī, for Gaṇeśa, the form of Gaṇeśa etc. will be on the middle śūla. For Subrahmaṇya, the representation of Subrahmaṇya will be on the śakti and not on triśūla. The Suprabhedāgama, Kāraṇāgama etc., have treated this. IFI. T. 146, 451, and 449 contain some extracts on this subject from Śaivāgama-s. Here it is the Śūla of Śiva that is treated.

Beginning

118.21 KĀRAṆĀGAMA
Vimānasthāpana

This text deals with the rituals for the consecration of a temple. The treatment is mostly identical with that contained in the Kāraṇāgama (Pūrva, chap. 70). This topic is dealt with in the Vīrāgama (IFI. T. 104 chap. 41), Kāmika (Pūrva, SIAA. chap. 69), Bhīmasaṃhitā (IFI. T. 543 pp. 1001-1003).

This text contains a few śloka-s which are to be uttered while the kettle-drum is to be sounded announcing the commencement of the festival. The beginning portion of this text has close agreement with the treatment of this topic in the Aghoraśivācāryapaddhati (edn. pp. 393-4) cf. IFI. T. 179 pp. 163-164.

118.23 VṚṢABHATĀLA
(Aruṇācalapaddhati ?)

This text seems to belong to Aruṇācalapaddhati – a text for ritual followed in Tiruvaṇṇāmalai Temple. It contains a few śloka-s which are to be sung in a set melody following a particular tāla. In the margin there are two titles Vṛṣabhatāla and Aruṇācalapaddhatinūlu. Since these śloka-s are in praise of Vṛṣabha, the bull of Śiva, the tāla is called Vṛṣabhatāla. IFI. T. 366, p. 25 deals with this but it is different from the text under notice.

118.29 ĀŚĪRVĀDA

This text contains the benedictory śloka-s to be uttered by priests for the well-being of the country on the occasion of festivals conducted in temples. This contains twenty-two cūrṇikā-s. Cūrṇikā-s belong to the daṇḍaka type of prose compositions but are treated as different from the daṇḍaka. This is different from that found on pp. 26-31 of IFI. T. n° 366. There are 11 cūrṇikā-s which are different in the printed edn. of Aghoraśivācārya's Mahotsavavidhi.

(Svāyambhuvāgama)

This text contains a brief treatment of Jīrṇoddhāravidhi, Aṣṭabandhanavidhi, Layāṅga and Bhogāṅga in connection with Ātmārthapūjā. At the outset, it is stated that this treatment is based on Svāyambhuva. IFI. T. 371 pp. 1190-1191 agrees with this and T. 451, pp. 259-260 for Jīrṇoddhāra. Treatment of the Aṣṭabandhana agrees with that in IFI. T. 370, pp. 300-302.

118.37 KRIYĀKRAMADYOTIKĀ
Saṃdhyāvāhana

Similar to n° 19.4, 92.43.

This text contains the treatment of Saṃdhyāvāhana which has an almost close agreement with that found in the Mahotsavavidhi of Aghoraśivācārya (printed edn., pp. 31-67) with slight changes. Some passages found at the beginning in the printed edn. are not found here. As indicated in the marginal heading: "Sandhyāvāhana, Aruṇācalapaddhati", this seems to be a part of Aruṇācalapaddhati, a digest of rituals for Tiruvaṇṇāmalai Temple.

118.38 . DEVATĀVĀHANA

Similar to n° 19.8.

This text deals with Devatāvāhana which forms part of the celebration of Mahotsava. It consists in inviting various deities to be present and participate in the conduct of the festival. The form of this text generally is cūrṇikā, a form of gadya with or without some śloka-s at the beginning and end. The festival is conducted in a particular temple where Śiva is the chief god in whose honour it is conducted. Though this invitation of the gods is a common feature marking the celebration of the festivals of Śiva, it has slight variations for each chief deity in the various temples. The words śrīmadaruṇācalasyāgneyadigbhāge, bhāskarakṣetre, śrīmadbṛhannāyakīsametaśrīmadvīraṭṭāneśvaraparameśvarasya occurring on fol. 273a, indicate that this act of invitation to gods is intended for adoption in the temple at Tirukkōvalūr which is in the South-East of Tiruvaṇṇāmalai main Temple. In the margin the heading "Aruṇācalapaddhati" indicates that this digest relating to the main Temple at Tiruvaṇṇāmalai, deals also with the rituals relating to other temples around it, namely the eight temples forming Vīraṭṭāna, which are at Tirukkaṇṭiyūr, Tirukkōvalūr, Tiruvatikai, Tiruppaṛiyalūr, Tiruviṛkuṭi, Vaḻuvūr, Tirukkurukkai and Tirukkaṭavūr and Bhāskarakṣetra which is a common name for any shrine of Śiva.

This text contains seventeen cūrṇikā-s, of which 5-14 & 16 are found in IFI. T. 707 having the total number 34 for śloka-s and cūrṇikā-s, and 1, 2, 5-12, 14-17 are found in IFI. T. 744 having 17 cūrṇikā-s. Aghoraśivācārya's Mahotsavavidhi (printed edn.) has 1, 3, 4, 6, 8 & 11 cūrṇikā-s of the text under notice but in a different order. Aghoraśivācārya's work contains 39 cūrṇikā-s and śloka-s.

118.41 SUBRAHMAṆYAPRATIṢṬHĀVIDHI
Kumāratantra(?)

Similar to n° 91.12 & 116.4.

This text deals with the installation of Subrahmaṇya. According to the colophon, this treatment forms part of the Kumāratantra. Neither the printed edns. of this tantra (SIAA) and Grantha edn., Madras 1913 nor IFI. T. 227, 272, 412, 431 & 472 contain the treatment of this kind, though IFI. T. 431 and 472 have a versified version of this topic. IFI. T. 449 (pp. 352-356) contains a version identical with that in the text under notice but not stated to be part of the Kumāratantra.

118.42 KRIYĀDĪPIKĀ
Muhūrtanirṇaya

This text deals with the fixing of the time for the installation of the deity. The colophon on fol. 336a runs as:– iti jyotiṣādisakalāgamasaṃgrahākhye kriyādīpike mūhurte ..... The title seems to be Kriyādīpikā. Regarding its identity, see below n° 150.1.

The portion from fol. 329, l.1. up to l.1 on fol. 330b is identical with ch. 27 of the Kālaprakāśikā of Narasiṃha with some śloka-s added from the Āgama-s. Passages are taken from the Kāraṇa, Vīra and Kālavidhāna. IFI. T. 83 called Śaivāgamavacanasaṃgraha contains this extract from the Kālaprakāśikā under the title Muhūrtādinirṇaya on

SKANDOTSAVADHVAJĀROHAṆA

RE 10.726. PL.; 22 fols.; 416 × 38 mms.; 6 lines; good condition but the leaf with n° 21 is broken; Grantha and Tamil; date: the colophon on fol 18b mentions the date of (the Ms.) as Pramātica Puraṭṭāci, 30; scribe: Ponnusvāmigurukkaḷ of Kīḻayūr (see fol. 18b); origin: Kīḻayūr.

Blank folios: The reverse side of the fly-leaf & 20b.

The obverse side of the fly-leaf contains śloka-s in praise of Vināyaka & Dakṣiṇāmūrti. Fol. 20a contains an invocation in Tamil to Vināyaka for singing (ēcal) songs mocking at Eṭṭukuṭivelavar (Subrahmaṇya). Fol. 21 is the repetition of the portion of Devatāvāhana found on fol. 10.

This text deals with Skandotsavadhvajārohaṇa. Apart from this preliminary rite, it gives Devatāvāhana, an invitation to the guardian deities. This text contains an abridged version of the contents of IFI. T. 712 (Skandotsava) for Devatāvāhana and Sandhyāvāhana.

Contents

121.2 KUMĀRATANTRA
Skandaṣaṣṭhīvrata

This text contains (1) Skandaṣaṣṭhyutsava and (2) Maṇḍalavidhi, both taken from the Kumāratantra. The former relates to the celebration of the festival in honour of Skanda on the sixth lunar phase in the Āśvayuja month and the latter to the drawing of the maṇḍala which is here called Bhadramaṇḍala. The colophon on fol. 37a and 40b refer to this work as Skandaṣaṣṭhīvrata. Yet, the second line at the beginning states the contents to comprise of both vrata and utsava. IFI. T. 272 and 472 refer to the Skandaṣaṣṭhyutsava which is in a way identical with that in the text under notice. Hence the title could be Skandaṣaṣṭhyutsava. IFI. T. 272 has more agreement with the text under notice than IFI. T. 472. Vratotsavavidhi is treated from fol. 37, l.5 in the text under notice.

In Public domain. Digitization Muthulakshmi Research Academy

The Maṇḍalavidhi is called Guhadīkṣāvidhi in IFI. T. 472 (pp. 61-62) and treated in the 10th paṭala. It has much agreement with the contents of the 10th paṭala of the Kumāratantra (Madras 1915 and SIAA).

Contents

1. Fol. 35: Ṣaṣṭhīvratadinanirṇaya; 2. 36: Utsavavidhi; 3. 36b-37a: Guhāsurasaṃhāraviṣaya; 4. 37a-40b: Skandaṣaṣṭhīvrata; 5. 41: Subrahmaṇyātmakaśrībhadramaṇḍalavidhi; 6. 42a-43b: Maṇḍapapūjā & Vedapārāyaṇasthāna.

121.3 ṢOḌAŚAKALĀPRĀSĀDA

The main mantra of Śiva is called Prāsādamantra. Navakalāprāsāda, Dvādaśakalāprāsāda and Ṣoḍaśakalāprāsāda are other names for this mantra. These names are derived according to the procedure and duration adopted for reciting this mantra. IFI. T. 52 (pp. 267-276) contains the mantra-s relating to the Prāsāda formed with 16 kalās.

SUPRABHEDA
Māsapūjāvidhi

RE 10.729. PL.; 9 fols.; 375 × 26 mms; 4 lines; good condition; Grantha; recent; ownership: Tālagiri Gurukkaḷ; origin: Kanyākumāri.
Blank folio: 9b.

This Ms. gives the procedure for doing certain kinds of worship one in each month of the year, but this is not treated in full. Many other topics are also found treated. The title is suggested by its mention in the fly-leaf. The colophon on fol. 1b runs as: iti suprabhede māsapūjāvidhipaṭalaḥ. This topic is not treated in the printed edn. or IFI. T. 360. IFI. T. 41 Part VI, pp. 210-248 contains the treatment of this topic, which is ascribed to Suprabheda according to the colophon of this section in pp. 211 & 248. All the aspects of treatment, such as worship with lāja, bhasita, pradīpa, ghṛta, madhu and ghṛtakambala are found treated in IFI. T. 41 but not in the Ms. under notice. The Ms. is thus incomplete. A similar treatment of this topic is found in the Kāraṇāgama (Pūrva) ch. 110.

VINĀYAKAPRATIṢṬHĀVIDHI

RE 10.730. PL.; 18 fols.; 395 × 32 mms.; 5-6 lines; good condition but moth-eaten at some places; Grantha; recent; scribe: Meyiyur Subbarāyagurukkaḷ (see fol. 127a); origin: Tirukkōyilūr.
Missing fols.: 1-109. Blank folio: 127b.

This is a manual describing the procedure for the installation of Vināyaka. The Kāraṇāgama and Kāmika are quoted. Though the Ms. starts abruptly with fol. n° 110a and ends with fol. n° 127a, the treatment of the subject is in order and complete. As such, this Ms. seems to be a part of a manual describing other rituals with the title: Vināyakatantra (see marginal heading on fol. 110a). The Ms. is in agreement with the Vighneśvarapratiṣṭhāvidhi of Aghoraśivācārya (SIAA) in some places.

124.1 PAÑCAŚUDDHI

This text deals with the preliminary purificatory rituals related to Śivapūjā namely Bhūtaśuddhi, Sthānaśuddhi and Dravyaśuddhi (the two others Mantraśuddhi and Lingaśuddhi are omitted, see n° 65.1). Fol. 1a has a few lines treating Saurapūjā and a reference to Tejaścaṇḍapūjā. Though the first fol. is numbered as one, the abrupt beginning of the treatment in this fol. suggests that a portion of this treatment is lost.

126.3 AṄKURĀRPAṆAVIDHIKRAMA

This manual deals with the rules for sowing seeds for germination of seedlings. The occasions for and the number of days during which this ritual is to be undertaken are stated. After treating this in a general way, the text deals with the treatments under the kāmya kind (fol. 22a-26a). At the end, ritual for Sūryapūjā is found. Citations are taken from the Suprabhedāgama. IFI. T. 90, 552, 554 and others treat this topic in a slightly different manner.

Fols. 1-96a contain the treatment of the Dīkṣāvidhi agreeing with the treatment of this topic in the printed text of Aghoraśivācārya's Kriyākramadyotikā with commentary, pp. 201-384, Chidambaram edn. (Grantha). Fols. 96a-97a speak of the greatness of the pupil who gets initiation. This is not traceable to the printed text of the Kriyākramadyotikā. Similarly the printed text does not contain the treatment of the Cūrṇotsavavidhi found in fols. 98a-101b in this text. Antyeṣṭividhi, which the text treats on fols. 102a-131a, is treated in the same way on pp. 389-410 of the printed edn. Mṛtakadīkṣā, treated in the text on fols. 126a-134a, is briefly treated in the printed edn. on pp. 439-441. Pāṣāṇasthāpanavidhi, which is treated on fols. 135a-138b of this text, finds an almost similar treatment on pp. 455-459 of the printed edn.

The squares in the north-east corner is connected with that in the south-west and that in the north-west with that in the south-east. Refer to Kāmika (Pūrva) 17. 1-13 for the enumeration of the diagrams, 17. 46-48 for Maṇḍūkapada and 17. 49-51a for Paramaśāyipada. See IFI. T. 554 pp. 236-238. Maṇḍūkapada gets a detailed treatment in Aṃśumattantra IFI. T. 273 pp. 445-449 and in Kāraṇāgama IFI. T. 313 pp. 237-241. Similarly, Paramaśāyipada gets a detailed description in Kāraṇāgama IFI. 130.1 JĀTAKAŚIROMAṆI

This text contains the Dvādaśabhāvaphala which forms ch. 13 of the Jātakaśiromaṇi a treatise on Astrology. Jātakaśiromaṇigrantham is the title on the fly-leaf but on the margin of fol. 1a, the words pārāśaryaṃ jātakaśiromaṇi are written. This text breaks off after verse 172. Three extra fols. are inserted between fols. 20 and 21, which also contain the treatment of dvādaśabhāvaphala; these are however narrow in size and are different in colour. After fol. 33, there is another fol. with the same n°. and it contains verses 170 & 171 repeated from the previous fols.

The author of this work is not mentioned. In IFI. RE. ŧ0744 the title is given as Pārāśarya. This is almost similar to GOML. D. 13.710 and Tanjore nos. 11.395 & 11.396. See NCC. VII p. 224.

Same as n° 129.1.

This Ms. begins with the Maṇḍapanirmāṇa in the Antyeṣṭividhi section of the Kriyākramadyotikā and ends with the Nirvāṇāntyeṣṭividhi. Rudrabali is treated before Pāṣāṇasthāpana, while the latter precedes Rudrabali in the printed edition. Vṛṣotsarjana, which is treated on fol. 48b, does not get treated in the printed edition. The treatment in this Ms. (fols. 6-51b) is the same as found on pp. 389-472 of the printed edn. (Chidambaram). The Ms. breaks off in Sapiṇḍīkaraṇaśrāddhavidhi. Fols. 1-5 deal with Cūrṇotsava which does not form part of the printed edn. A small portion is wanting at the end. The Cūrṇotsavastotra (of Śaivotsava) by Nandikeśvara is stated on fol. 5 as forming part of the Sūtasaṃhitā.

134.1 DATTĀTREYAKALPA
(Uḍḍāmareśvaratantra)

This text which deals with the worship of Dattātreya is included within Uḍḍāmareśvaratantra. Ḍāmara-s represent one of the sixty four Tantra-s (see Kulacūḍāmaṇi tantra, paṭala 1 śl. 1-14). Uḍḍāmareśvaratantra, which is also known as Uḍḍāmara, akin to Ḍāmara, is held to treat the ritual of the six acts, śānti, vaśīkaraṇa, stambhana, uccāṭana, vidveṣaṇa and māraṇa. For details regarding the contents of this type of literature, see Teun Goudriaan and Sanjukta Gupta: Hindu Tantric and Sākta Literature (Otto Harrassowitz – Wiesbaden 1981) pp. 118-121. A printed text called Uḍḍāmareśvaratantra (KSTS n° LXX, Srinagar – 1947) deals with subjects pertaining to magical ceremonies and preparation of drugs for the attainment of worldly ends. NCC. II p. 290 enumerates the topics dealt with in the Uḍḍāmareśvaratantra, among which, kalpa-s on Kārtavīrya, Dattātreya, Pratyaṅgirā, Bhairava, Vaṭuka and Vārāhī are mentioned. RASB. VIII n° 5848 describes an Uḍḍāmaratantra which is styled Uḍḍīśa. It is an extract from Rudrayāmala and is mainly concerned with the rituals of the six acts.

The text under notice deals with the Mantra-s, Yantra-s and Dhyāna of Dattātreya who is held to represent the divine descent of Viṣṇu (Vide:– Bhāgavata 1.3.12.) S.C. Vidyābhūṣaṇa names him as Datta and his gotra name as Ātreya suffixed to it (S.C. Vidyābhūṣaṇa, History of Indian logic, Delhi 1971, p. 10). Fol. 18a names him as Dattātreya after his father whose name was Dattātri. This is different from Tanjore Suppl. Burnell n°. 12044.

134.4 DATTĀTREYAPŪRVOTTARATĀPINYUPANIṢAT

This text is treated as the 105th Upaniṣad attached to the Atharvaveda. It is of three parts (khaṇḍa). Fols. 27a-29b contain the first part called Pūrvatāpinī. Vide:– ītyatharvaṇarahasye dattātreyapūrvatāpinyopaniṣat samāptā. The second part is contained in fol. 30. The third part (fol. 31) is called Uttaratāpanīya. Vide:– iti dattātreyottaratāpanīyo(u)paniṣat samāptā. 108 Upaniṣads (NS. 1932, pp. 541-543) has parts 1 and 2 considered as forming part of the 1st khaṇḍa and the remaining as the second khaṇḍa. The Adyar Library edn. of the Vaiṣṇava upaniṣads contains this Upaniṣat in three parts (pp. 159-163) called khaṇḍa-s but the names Pūrvatāpinī and Uttaratāpinī do not occur in this edition. The second section, in the text under notice, contains the Dattātreyamālāmantra which is found in n° 134.1, fols. 16b-18a.

134.5 DATTĀTREYASANDHYĀVANDANA

The procedure of practising Sandhyāvandana, in which the main deity is Sun, is laid down in the Kalpasūtras; it is replaced in the schools of the sects following Śiva, Dattātreya and others by these deities. The text under notice gives the procedure for doing this, keeping Dattātreya as the supreme deity. This is different from GOML. D. 7873.

134.7 VĀSIṢṬHASAṂHITĀ
Gāyatrīyantroddhāravidhi

This text describes the method of drawing the Gāyatrīyantra. Besides doing the Gāyatrījapa, the mantra can be written on the yantra. IFI. T. 588, which is called Vāsiṣṭhasaṃhitā, does not contain this. An almost similar treatment is found in GOML. D. 7819 called Gāyatrīmantroddhāra but it is not known as part of Vāsiṣṭhasaṃhitā, though the narrator is Vasiṣṭha. Sanskrit and Telugu in Grantha script are used in this text.

AṂŚUMATTANTRA
Prāyaścittavidhi

RE 10.767. PL.; 73 fols.; 237 × 27 mms.; 5-6 lines; good condition but some leaves are worm-eaten; Grantha; old; origin: Tirukkōyilūr.

Two leaves (fly-leaves) at the beginning contain a letter addressed to a priest by one Appukkuṭṭi regarding curing a disease with some talisman.

This Ms. contains the procedure for performing the rites of expiation (prāyaścitta). These rites are treated in two parts. The first part (fols. 1a-43b) contains the account of rites that are concerned with the worship done every day. The second part (fols. 44a-71b) is called Viśeṣaprāyaścitta which deals with expiations for other special occasional rites. This does not have agreement with many IFI. T. MSS. except T. 273 which has incomplete treatment.

136.1 ŚIVĀGAMĀDIMĀHĀTMYASAṂGRAHA

by Jñānaprakāśa

This text treats the greatness of the Śaiva āgama-s. Profuse citations from texts such as Vāyavīyasaṃhitā, Cintyaviśva, Mokṣakārikā, Hālāsyamāhātmya, Mahābhārata, Kāmika, Suprabheda, Vedatātparyasaṃgraha, Mohaśūrottarāgama, Rauravavṛttiviveka, Rauravasaṃgraha, Kiraṇavṛtti, Jñānalakṣaṇasaṃgraha, Vaidikaparārthamīmāṃsā, Sannyāsadīpikā, Vidyāsaṃhitā etc. This text begins on folio 1a, then breaks off on fol. 13a, and again it continues on fol. 24a and ends on fol. 74b. In between there are two works Makuṭāgama: Tantrāvatārapaṭala (fol. 13b-22b) and Śivastotra (fol. 22b-23b). Thus the work is complete. According to the colophon on fol. 74b the author of this work is Jñānaprakāśa of Śālivāṭivana (Tirunelveli in Jaffna, Śrīlaṅkā). For further details about this author, see Introduction to Śivayogaratna, IFI. Pub. n° 53. We have another Ms. RE.10964 which is similar to this Ms. Only the maṅgalaśloka in the beginning is missing. Here also the text breaks off on folio 10a, then comes the Makuṭāgama: Tantrāvatārapaṭala (fol. 10a-16a) then Śivastotra (fol. 16a-16b) and then the continuation of Śaivāgamādimāhātmyasaṃgraha (fol. 17a-46a). There are two transcripts of this work in IFI. T. 372 and T. 1059 which are complete. There are 2 other transcripts IFI. 254 pp. 186-201 (incomplete) and T. 281 pp. 114-142 which have some variants.

136.2 MAKUṬĀGAMA
Tantrāvatārapaṭala

This is the 17th Mūlāgama with two Upāgama-s, one having the same name and the other called Makuṭottara. 12 chapters of the Kriyāpāda alone are available in print (SIAA, 1977) and there are Mss. containing more chapters. IFI. T. 274 has 19 topics and IFI. T. 159 has 48 topics. However, these are not complete, as this text is stated to have 3000 śloka-s. Vide:– iti mukuṭatantre trisahasrasaṃhitāyāṃ kriyāpāde tantrāvatāro nāma prathamaḥ paṭalaḥ (Colophon SIAA edn. p. 10). This Āgama is in the form of a discourse delivered by Parameśvara to Maheśvara. 136.9 AŚVATTHAPRATIṢṬHĀ
(Varāhapurāṇa)

This text treats the consecration of the Aśvattha tree and also upanayana and marriage of the same. They are performed for the perpetuation of the family, for begetting children by the childless (see, Śāntikusumākara I p. 10 Kumbakonam) and for averting certain evils in the future (P.V. Kane, History of Dharmaśāstra Vol. II Part I, p. 546). From the colophon, Varāhapurāṇa is stated to be the source but this is not found in the printed edn. of the Varāhapurāṇa (Kāśirāj Trust, Varanasi). Jamadagni's name is mentioned at the end in connection with this treatment. For Jamadagni, see NCC. VII, p. 161. For topics of this kind from different sources, see NCC. I. p. 438.

Fols. 27a, 28 and 29a contain fragments of Vināyakastotra and Skandārcana respectively.

138.1 TIRUVĀCAKA

Tiruvācaka is a Tamil poetic work composed by Māṇikkavācaka in praise of Lord Śiva. Fols. 1a-2b contain the Tirukkaḻukkuṉṟappatika, (Tiruvācaka 30) and fols. 3a-5b, the Tiruppaḷḷiyeḻucci, (Tiruvācaka 20). These two parts seem to be added to this Ms., which deals mainly with daily ritual in a temple, as the second one is sung in the morning in temples in general, but the first one in the temple at Tirukkaḻukkuṉṟam at the end of the daily pūjā. Perhaps this Ms. as a whole, may be a hand-book of a priest of Tirukkaḻukkuṉṟam.

Fol. 101b contains a śloka on the fixing of proper time for installation (of deities).

140.1 ṢOḌAŚAVIGRAHADHYĀNA

This text contains dhyānaśloka-s of 16 forms of Śiva starting with Somāskanda. Some of these are dealt with, though in a different order, in IFI. T. 102. Of similar nature is the treatment in IFI. T. 232 pp. 19-24, T. 252 pp. 547-552 and T. 680 pp. 13-17. The three texts (140.2, 140.3, 140.4) which follow this are clearly in continuation of it (see initial verse in each text).

140.2 PAÑCAVIṂŚATIMŪRTIDHYĀNA

This text contains the dhyānaśloka-s of 25 forms of Śiva starting with Somadhārī. Treatment is the same as in IFI. T. 232 pp. 149-158 and T. 252 pp. 466-474. This differs from the treatment in IFI. T. 680 pp. 116-122 and T. 675 pp. 1-8. IFI. T. 725 pp. 2-12 has a description of the twenty-five forms in Telugu language written in Devanāgari script. Cf. T. 102 pp. 18-23 and T. 288 pp. 330-340. See Triv. Uni. Mss. Library, Ms. n° 8605.

140.5 ṢOḌAŚAGAṆAPATIDHYĀNA

This text contains dhyānaśloka-s of various forms of Gaṇapati. The title is Ṣoḍaśagaṇapatidhyāna (dhyāna-s for 16 forms) but there are dhyānaśloka-s for twentyfour forms. Sixteen deities are dealt with in IFI. T. 102 pp. 91-95, T. 288 pp. 294-299 & T. 590 pp. 1-4. IFI. T. 246 (2) contains the names of the sixteen deities in p. 517, twenty four in T. 680 pp. 94-101 and thirty in IFI. T. 105 pp. 1-6 and T. 232 pp. 121-132.

Beginning

Fol. 86a, l.1. prathamaṃ bālavighneśaṃ dvitīyantaruṇaṃ bhavet / tṛtīyaṃ bhaktavighneśaṃ caturthaṃ vīravighnakam //

End

SŪKṢMĀGAMA

RE 10.779. & 10.780. PL.; 326 (159 + 167) fols.; 415 × 31 mms.; 6-8 lines; condition: not good, many leaves in RE. 10.780 are damaged; Grantha; condition: old; origin: Tirukkōyilūr.

The Ms. RE. 10.780 is in continuation (fols. and chap. numbers) of Ms. RE. 10.779.

Missing fol.: 310. Blank fols.: 133b, 158b, 241b, 309b. Two fols. bear the same number 155.

These two Mss. together contain the Sūkṣmāgama, the seventh Mūlāgama. Pratiṣṭhā-tantra (fol. 14b), and Naimittikakāṇḍa (fol. 15b) are found to be the inner sections of the Kriyāpāda which these Mss. deal with. RE. 10.779 contains 58 paṭalas and 10.780, 71 paṭalas. (Both Mss. are copied in IFI. T. 1003 and T. 1016).

The marking of the paṭala numbers in the colophon is quite irregular. Paṭalas 1-6 are not marked, 7-29 are marked as 9-31, 30-42 are 34-46, and 59 is 62, some paṭalas are not marked on fols. 147b, 152a, 158a, 241a & 309b, some paṭalas have the same number e.g., fol. 127a, 129a, 295a, 295b, 299a, 317a & 318a. Some paṭalas are incomplete e.g., fols. 133a, fol. 309a: Bhaktotsavavidhi (fol. 290b-291b), & Śītakumbhavidhi (fol. 299a-300b), which form part of the Āgama, are not noted in the Ms. Pañcapratyayavidhi is the title on fol. 316b, paṭala 125 which treats Pāṣāṇapratyayavidhi; Pañcapratyayavidhi is the title on fol. 320a, paṭala 127 which is on Satyapratyayavidhi.

Our Library contains several palm leaf manuscripts in which are found more or less important parts of the Sūkṣmāgama of which some are described in this volume (n° 92.33, 116.7 & 22 & 149) and more than sixty others will be described in order. See also IFI. T. 36, T. 37, T. 38, T. 97, T. 191, T. 955 & T. 967.

143.3 DEVĪKAVACAM

This text contains Devīkavaca, stated in the colophon on fol. 143b as composed by Brahmā. GOML. D. 6427 agrees with this at the end and is, according to the colophon, taken from Brahmavaivartapurāṇa. The contents of the text under notice differ from the version in the printed edns. of the Brahmavaivarta (also °kaivarta) purāṇa I (Jīvānanda Vidyāsāgar, Calcutta 1888, ch. 39) and in the Ānandāśrama edn. I ch. 39. GOML. D. 6272-6275 contain the narrations of this kavaca by Brahmā and the Ms. under notice has much in common with these which are called Caṇḍikādevīkavaca. This is identical with the Caṇḍīkavaca (Pub. BR II (1963) 233) said to be part of the Varāhapurāṇa (not found in the printed edn.) except for the beginning portion.

143.4 DEVĪMĀHĀTMYA
(Mārkaṇḍeyapurāṇa)

Same as n° 35.2, 50, 60, 61.1. This text contains only the 4th and 11th chapters. The first śloka in ch. 4 occurring in this text is not found in any of the printed edns. (see n° 35.2).

143.5 DAKṢINĀMŪRTYAṢṬAKA
of Śaṃkara

Same as n° 11.9. There are additional śloka-s (see below).

Beginning

Fol. 149b, l.1. viśvaṃ darpaṇadṛśyamānanagarītulyaṃ nijāntargataṃ paśyannātmani māyayā bahirivodbhūtaṃ yathā nidrayā / yaḥ sakṣātkurute prabodhasamaye svātmānamevādvayaṃ tasmai śrīgurumūrtaye nama idaṃ śrīdakṣiṇāmūrtaye /

On fol 149a, four śloka-s are noticed; the first reads thus: yatpādapadmamakarandajuṣāṃ narāṇāṃ saṃsāraghorabhujagānubhave sma bhītiḥ / saccidghanaṃ sakalasaukhyalavāmburāśiṃ śrīdakṣiṇābhimukhamūrtim ajaṃ bhaje'ham // The second śloka marks the benedictory stanza in the Tattvasudhā, the commentary on Śaṃkara's Dakṣiṇāmūrtyaṣṭaka by Svayaṃprakāśayati, pupil of Kaivalyānandayogin. The third śloka is from the Dakṣiṇāmūrtistotra: citraṃ vaṭatarormūle vṛddhāḥ śiṣyā guruyuvā / gurostu maunaṃ vyākhyānaṃ śiṣyāste chinnasaṃśayāḥ / The last śloka forms part of Svayaṃprakāśayati's commentary mentioned above:– kaivalyānandayogīndraśuddhānandā(a)yatīśvarau / natvārabhe laghuvyākhyāṃ dakṣiṇāśāmukhastuteḥ // śrīgurubhyo namaḥ / śrīgurubhyo namaḥ / śrī gurubhyo namaḥ // From this, it appears that these śloka-s are intended to be recited before the reading of the Dakṣiṇāmūrtyaṣṭaka is undertaken, although they do not form part of the text.

Towards the end of fol. 150b, l.11, the following śloka is found:– vaṭaviṭapisamīpe bhūmibhāge niṣaṇṇaṃ sakalamunijanānāṃ jñānadātāramārāt / tribhuvanagurumīśaṃ dakṣiṇāmūrtidaivam / jananamaraṇaduḥkhacchedadakṣaṃ namāmi // Fol. 151a, l.2. has the following śloka:– cidghanāya maheśāya gurave buddhisākṣiṇe / oṃkāravācyarūpāya śrīdakṣiṇāmūrtaye namaḥ // śrī gurubhyo namaḥ / hariḥ oṃ / śubhamastu // These two śloka-s are perhaps intended to be recited after the main stotra is read out. The śloka-s are not correctly numbered.

143.6 VARALAKṢMĪVRATA

SIDDHĀNTASĀRĀVALI & ŚIVĀGAMĀDIMĀHĀTMYASAṄGRAHA

RE 10.783. PL.; 156 fols.; 490 × 40 mms.; 7-9 lines; good condition but some leaves are slightly damaged by worms; Grantha; old; origin: Tirukkoyilūr.
Blank folios: 80-89. Fol. 113 is numbered as 112.

1. Fols. 1a-162b: Siddhāntasārāvali (savyākhyā); 2. 163a-165b: Śivāgamādimāhātmyasaṅgraha.

145.1 SIDDHĀNTASĀRĀVALI
of Trilocanaśambhu with the commentary of Anantaśambhu

The full text in four pāda-s with the commentary is published in Bull. of the GOML. (Madras), Vols. XVII-XX (see the Introduction in Vol. XVII pp. 29-31 for details on the work). The Grantha edn. (Śivajñānabodha Press, Madras 1901) contains only the work of Trilocanaśiva as does the Kannada edn. (Mysore 1930) which omits the Caryāpāda.

The Ms. under reference contains the Kriyāpāda, Yogapāda and Caryāpāda and does not have Jñānapāda. Though the leaves are numbered from 1, the first śloka in the first section Kriyāpāda is numbered as 28, suggesting that the scribe held this to be in continuation of the Jñānapāda which has 27 śloka-s. The printed text of the Siddhāntasārāvali contains śl. 1-27 in the Jñānapāda, 28-117 in the Kriyāpāda, 118-125 in the Yogapāda and 126-166 in the Caryāpāda.

The Kriyāpāda begins on fol. 1 and breaks off on fol. 31b containing śloka 21 and again begins on fol. 95a containing śloka 22. These two śloka-s are numbered as 40 and 41 respectively but śloka 39 on fol. 18b is wrongly numbered as 33. Thus the correct numbers on fol. 31b and 95a should be 48 and 49, if calculated from the beginning i.e. Jñānapāda which contains 27 śloka-s. This section ends on fol. 162b, the śloka having the number 116. The Yogapāda begins on fol. 32a. The numbering for the śloka-s begins with 118 and 119-125 are the numbers for the succeding seven śloka-s. The Caryāpāda begins on fol. 37a and ends in fol. 94b and the numbers for śloka-s are given correctly as 126-166. 162 leaves are numbered in the Ms. but fols. with nos. 80-89 are wanting which does not however, affect the continuity of the text.

The Ms. under notice does not contain the last śloka found in the printed text (GOML. Vol. XX. p. 71).

In Public domain. Digitization Muthulakshmi Research Academy

The other works of Trilocanaśiva are Prāyaścittasamuccaya, Ratnatrayoddyota, Siddhāntasamuccaya and a commentary upon Somaśambhupaddhati (see IFI. Pub. n° 25.1 p. XLII). Anantaśambhu also known as Anantaśivācārya, wrote, besides this commentary, a work called Tīrthakālādinirṇaya (cf. NCC I p. 183).

Similar to n° 111.7.

This text is called Kriyādīpikā in the colophons on fol. 9b, 12a and 16a. The colophon has further a qualifying name Sakalāgamasaṃgrahākhye for the title of this work. This text deals with the rituals relating to consecration ceremonies. As it contains quotations from different āgama-s to establish its authority, this is also called Sakalāgamasaṃgraha.

There is a work called Kriyādīpikā by Śivāgrayogīndrajñānaśivācārya (Grantha, Madras, 1930) which is quite different from the work under notice.

The text is incomplete. Several works like the Siddhāntasārāvali, Suprabheda, Cintya, Ajita, Sūkṣma and others are cited.

156.1 TĒVĀRAM

The Tēvāram is a collection of Tamil hymns to Śiva composed by Tiruñāṇacampantar, Tirunāvukkaracar (Appar) and Cuntarar (see IFI. Pub. n° 68). Here we have on the whole 19 decades taken from the Appar's compositions: 10 from the 14th Tirumuṟai, 3 from the 5th and 6 from the 6th; they appear in the following order: 4.1; 6.98; 5.90; 4.2; 4.11; 6.3; 4.10; 4.24; 4.25; 4.26; 4.27; 4.28 (without decades 5 to 9); 4.104 (without decades 7 to 10); 5.53; 5.54; 6.4; 6.5; 6.6; 6.7 (breaks off in 5th decade).

This collection of decades is connected with the story of Appar or with Vīraṭṭāneśvarar (Tripurasaṃhāramūrti) god of Tiruvatikai (South Arcot dt.). Of these 4.1 was sung by Appar to cure his stomach ache, 6.98 is a reply to the Pallava king Mahendravarman at Kāñci, 5,90, 4.2, and 4.11 were appeals to God Śiva to save him from the cruel punishments given by the king at Kānci. The rest are in praise of the Lord at Tiruvatikai. Thus this collection of decades are those sung at Tiruvatikai, or those related to the episodes when Appar stayed there. There is one more decade 6.3 which also was sung at Tiruvatikai but not found in this Ms.

156.2 CIVAÑĀṆACITTIYĀR (Cupakkam) by Aruḷnanti

Civañāṇacittiyār, written in the 13th c., gives an exposition on the Śaiva doctrine based upon Meykkaṇṭār's sūtra. It has two parts Cupakkam (Svapakṣa) and Parapakkam (Parapakṣa) dealing with prima facie and siddhānta views respectively. Here Cupakkam is given as the title in the margin (fol 19a) and we have the first stanza of the same with a very brief commentary. From fol. 20a to 44a, there is a commentary on the Parapakkam. In the middle of fol. 26a-30a, there is just a repetition of the previous portion. This commentary is not yet published, still there is similarity between it and the notes on Tattvaprakāśar's commentary published in Lakshmi Vilas Press (Madras 1935).

157.4 PRĀSĀDAVIDHI

This text contains a fragmentary description of the Prāsādamantra, the main seed mantra (bījākṣara) of Śiva namely "hauṃ", and of darśana etc. of Tripadārtha-s of the three categories (tattva-darśana, ātma darśana and Śiva darśana) in the Daśakārya, i.e. the ten acts to be done by Śaiva-s: Tattvadarśana, Tattvarūpa, Tattvaśuddhi, Ātmadarśana, Ātmarūpa, Ātmaśuddhi, Śivadarśana, Śivarūpa, Śivayoga and Śivabhoga. Sanskrit text is having Tamil explanation here in Maṇipravāla style. This is incomplete. IFI. T. 460, pp. 961-968 contains this, but the text under notice is in agreement with this only in some places.

157.6 AJAPĀGĀYATRĪMANTRAJAPAVIDHĀNA

Similar to n° 103.3. This text contains the procedure to recite Ajapāgāyatrīmantra, which is very useful for a person to attain yogic power. IFI. T. 447, pp. 147-155, deals with this topic. The text under notice is in agreement with this only in some places. Fols. 83b-94b contain the treatment of Ajapāgāyatrī. Two leaves are lost in this text which is incomplete. Fols. 95a-100b contain the same treatment which is also incomplete having no beginning and no end and having lost six leaves in the middle.

The word ajapā, in the word ajapāmantra, refers to the repetition of the mantra called Haṃsamantra in an unarticulated way. This is to be done through mere exhalation and inhalation of breath 21600 times beginning from sun's rise on a particular day till sunrise next day. This japa is to be offered to various deities like Gaṇeśa, Viṣṇu, Rudra and others who are to be meditated upon as remaining in the circles called Mūlādhāra, Svādhiṣṭhāna and others. Information on this procedure is available in the printed text of the Śrīvidyānityāhnika (Guhānanda Maṇḍali Series n° 9. Madras, 1955). For Mss. on the matters allied to this, see NCC. I. pp. 78-80. The colophon of the Tanjore Ms. with this name attributes it to the authorship of Śaṃkarācārya. Vide:– Suppl. n° 831.

157.7 TRIPURASUNDARYAṢṬOTTARAŚATANĀMAŚLOKĀVALI

Same as n° 5.10, 36.10. This text contains 30 śloka-s enshrining 108 names of goddess Tripurasundarī: 17 śloka-s contain the names of the goddess, the remaining describing the results obtained by reciting them (phalaśruti). This is in the form of conversation between Śiva and Skanda. Adyar Des. Cat. Stotras Vol. II n° 520 has reference to the work under the caption Devyaṣṭottaraśatanāmāvali.

157.9 AṢṬĀVIṂŚATYĀGAMANĀMĀVALI

The names of the 28 Śaivāgama-s are given in the dative case with the word, namaḥ tagged on. This is a part of daily worship which comes at the end of the daily rite and is called Vidyā-guru-pūjā. Here the word vidyā indicates Āgama-s which are worshipped, because they are the sources of knowledge. By the word guru, the teachers are held to be worshipped. Writing is on 2 columns. 157.11 SUBRAHMAṆYAṢAḌAKṢARATRIŚATĪNĀMASTOTRA

This text contains an incomplete version of the Subrahmaṇyaṣaḍakṣaratriśatīnāmastotra in 68(½) verses. The names of Subrahmaṇya, found in the text under consideration, are formed by 6 letters of Subrahmaṇya (in combination with the letters of Bālāmantra). This text starts on fol. 110a (original number: 1a). As the fols. having 2, 3, 5-9 and 11 (original numbers) are missing, the continuity of the text is affected. This differs from IFI. T. 657 pp. 30-33. SIAA. has published Subrahmaṇyatriśatīnāmāvali (1961), but it is different from the text under notice.

VĀTULAŚUDDHA

RE 10.829. PL.; 71 fols.; 191 × 35 mms.; 6-9 lines; good condition but some leaves are damaged by worms; Grantha; date: Piṅgala, Dhanus, pañcadaśa (or) Subhānu, Citrā, 8 (see fol. 134a); ownership: Satyajñāni; origin: Tiruvaiyāṟu (see fol. 134b).

This Ms. contains the ten chapters of the Jñānapāda of the Vātulaśuddha, which is one among the twelve upāgama-s of the Vātulāgama, the 28th Mūlāgama. The other eleven upāgama-s are Vāṭula, Vātulottara, Kālajñāna, Prarohita, Sarva, Dharmātmaka, Nitya, Śreṣṭha, Mahānana, Viśva and Viśvātmaka. The Mūlāgama is not available in full e.g., IFI. RE 20067 (a), 24082 (c), 24107 (i), 29365 (d), 29368 (b), & 39986 and T. 339. It is not definitely known whether these form part of the upāgama Vātula. Among the upāgama-s, Vātulottara (IFI. T. 624), Kālajñāna (Vide:– NCC. IV p. 20) and Vātulaśuddha alone are available.

The Vātulaśuddha is available in print: 1. Grantha edn. of text with commentary (CP. Madras). 2: under the title Āgamarahasya – Vātulaśuddhākhya (Manonmanī Granthamālā 6, Bangalore 1958). 3: Vātula (Yogatantragranthamālā, Kaśī Sanskrit University, Varanasi). & 4: Vātulatantra (ORI, Mysore). The colophons of the Madras and Bangalore edns. give the title as Vātulottara Śuddhākhya; in Madras and Varanasi edns. as well as in the Ms. under notice the title Vātulabheda is also found. All these editions contain ten chapters.

The Madras and Mysore edns. refer to the extent of the text as one thousand grantha-s (grantha = 32 syllables). Madras edn. contains 782 śl., Varanasi edn. 669 ½, Bangalore edn. 809. IFI. T. 349, 477 and 632 have respectively 540, 605 and 800 śl. The Ms. under notice has about 980 śl. (IFI. T. 264, 339 and 997 are incomplete).

The Madras edn. and the Mss. IFI. RE. 20058, RE. 24111 and T. 488 contain a commentary of unknown authorship.

Fol. 134a gives the date of the Ms.:– Piṅgalasaṃvatsara Dhanurmāsa pañcadaśadina. Fol. 134b mentions Subhānu Cittirai, 8th day, Saturday, Āśleṣānakṣatra and Tiruvaiyaru as the place.

The first fol. is numbered as 64. This shows that 63 folios of this bundle must contain the treatment of some other topic.

162.11 ŚIVĀṢṬOTTARAŚATADIVYANĀMASTOTRA
(Bhaviṣyottarapurāṇa)

This text contains 108 names of Śiva. This is said to form part of the Bhaviṣyottarapurāṇa in Śivarahasya. Nārāyaṇa tells these names to Gaurī. The name of the stotra is given as Sadāśivāṣṭottaraśatadivyanāmastotramahāmantra in the saṃkalpa at the beginning. Pub: 1. BK. I. pp. 209-210; 2. BR. I. (1963) n° 219.

This is same as IFI. T. 657 pp. 3-4 & T. 664 pp. 22-23, Adyar Ms. Stotra-s II n° 1340; GOML. R. 610 (d); Trivandrum Palace Library n° 1240 C.

162.18 SARVAJÑĀNOTTARA
Svātmasākṣātkāropadeśaprakaraṇa

The Sarvajñānottara is mentioned as an upāgama in the introduction of the edition of its vidyāpāda (pub. with a Tamil commentary by the Śaivāgamasiddhāntaparipālanasaṅgha, Devakottai 1925). However, the mūlāgama, to which it belongs, is not mentioned there. This work is not mentioned in the Tantrāvatārapaṭala of any Mūlāgama text; it is found included among the sixty four tantras. Vide:– Lakṣmīdhara's commentary on Saundaryalaharī (śl. 31), ORI. Mysore 1969.

Appayadīkṣita (c. 1600 A.D.) speaks of it as Vaidikaśivāgama, (i.e.) a Śaivāgama deriving support from the Vedic tradition (Vide: – vāyusaṃhitaikārthe sarvajñānottarākhye vaidikaśaivāgame tato'nyatrāpi kvacitkvacidāgame śivasya upādānatvam api pratipāditam // Śivārkamaṇidīpikā on Śrīkaṇṭhabhāṣya (2-2-38), N.S. Press, Bombay, 1918.

The Sarvajñānottara, which is in the form of a discourse delivered by Śiva to Ṣaṇmukha (Skanda), contains all the four pāda-s. There are respectively one, seven and twenty-five chapters in the yoga-, vidyā- and kriyāpāda (see IFI. T. 334, T. 760). For the caryāpāda, see GOML. D. 5550 (where it is called "uttarapāda").

Apart from the Ms. under notice, parts of the Sarvajñānottara are found in IFI. T. 496, RE. 10871, Adyar Alph. List. p. 140, etc...

The Ms. contains the second chapter of the vidyāpāda which presents the instructions given by Śiva to Skanda on the means of intuiting one's own self. As a preliminary step, three entities, ātman, Śiva and paramātman are mentioned for meditation and the aspirant will realise that all these are one and the same. This Ms. contains 63 śloka-s, while IFI. T. n° 760 and 334 have two more śloka-s at the end.

162.19 ŚIVALIṄGAPRATIṢṬHĀVIDHI
by Īśānaśivācārya
Pañcāvaraṇapūjādhyāna

This text contains the śloka-s which are to be meditated upon while performing worship to every one of the five enclosures (āvaraṇa). The word āvaraṇa means enclosure encircling a deity, here Śiva, with the aṅga-s such as hṛdaya and others, Vidyeśvara-s, Lokapāla-s and the weapons of the Lokapāla-s. Vide:– Mṛgendrāgama – Kriyāpāda and Caryāpāda (IFI. Pub: n° 23, 1962) p. 293. See also Rauravāgama Vol. I (IFI. Pub: n° 18.1), p. 44.

This text forms part of the Śivaliṅgapratiṣṭhāvidhi of Īśānaśivācārya, of the Mattamayūra line of Āmardamaṭha, who preceded Bhoja (C. 1000 A.D.). Vide:– NCC. II. p. 265. The matter, which is dealt with in the text under notice,is contained in pp. 351-358 of the printed edition of the Śivaliṅgapratiṣṭhāvidhi, (Tiruvaiyaru, 1924).

This text contains the dhyānaśloka-s of each enclosure. The printed text calls this as Pañcāvaraṇapūjā. Fols. 5-7 and 10 (original numbers) are missing. The treatment of no enclosure is complete. The text breaks off in the treatment of the fifth āvaraṇa. This is different from n° 76.10.

162.20 ĀGAMASĀRATRIŚATĪNĀMĀVALI

This text contains three hundred names of Śiva based on the Āgamas. Ref. NCC. II. p. 15. This is the same as GOML. D. 9214 with the title Āgamatriśatīnāmāvali; GOML. D. 5426 with the title Āgamasāraśatakatrayam does not contain the names of Śiva but deals with the doctrines of the Vīraśaivas (cf. IFI. T. N° 329). At the end, 328 is mentioned as the number perhaps, of the names. Writing is on 2 columns.

162.26 CINTYAVIŚVA
Saptaviṣuva

The Cintyaviśva (or Acintyaviśva) is an upāgama of the Cintyāgama but this name, as it is, is not noted in the list of six upāgama-s of this mūlagama. Most probably, this is the same as Sucintya a name found in that list. Manuscripts of this text are available under the title Acintyaviśvasādākhya or Cintyaviśva, and in the colophon, it is mentioned that it is an upāgama (Cintyopabheda) of Cintyāgama (see IFI. T. 7, 8, 100, 152).

The text, under notice describes the seven viṣuva-s and, according to Dīkṣādarśa, it forms part of the Cintyaviśva (see IFI. T. 76 p. 301). The word viṣuva means dissolution (laya) according to this text. The seven viṣuva-s are prāṇa, mantra, nāḍī, praśānta, śakti, kāla and layatattva. The last one is read as, tattvaviṣuva in the Dīkṣādarśa text. For further details, see Svacchanda (KSTS. edn.) 4. 331b-335, Sārdhatriśatīkālottara (IFI.

162.30 ŚIVAPAÑCĀKṢARĪSTOTRA

This text contains ten śloka-s in praise of Śiva. The first 6 śloka-s begin with the letters forming the Pañcākṣaramantra. The seventh śloka is in praise of Śiva as the god protecting others from the poison Hālāhala. Śloka-s 8-10 contain phalaśruti of reading this stotra. This is different from n° 59.18 which is ascribed to Śaṃkara. BR. I. (1960), n° 12 contains this stotra under the caption "Śivaṣaḍakṣarastotra", and it agrees with the text under notice only in a few places. The source, according to the colophon found in the BR, is, the Rudrayāmala. GOML. D. 11054 agrees with this text only for the beginning portion.

162.31 PAÑCĀKṢARAMAHĀMANTRĀṢṬOTTARAŚATANĀMĀVALI

Though the title indicates 108 names, this text contains the 125 names of Śiva using one or more syllables constituting Pañcākṣara. This is identical with IFI. T. 657, pp. 26-30, same as GOML. D. 9227 which has lost the beginning portion. GOML. D. 9228 called Praṇavāṣṭāviṃśatināmāvali has an identical beginning with the text under notice. Writing is on 2 columns.

Beginning

Fol. 183 (1)a, l.1. oṃ oṃkārarūpiṇe namaḥ / oṃ oṃkāranilayāya namaḥ / oṃ oṃkārabījapataye namaḥ / oṃ oṃkārasarohaṃsāya namaḥ / oṃ oṃkārapadamadhyagāya namaḥ /

163.2 SVACCHANDALALITABHAIRAVA

Svacchandatantra is one of the prominent Tantra-s of the right hand school (Dakṣiṇācāra). This Tantra adopts the monistic (Advaita) system of the Śaiva philosophy. It is in the form of a dialogue between Devī and Bhairava. The word 'lalita' occurs in the title prefixed to the word bhairava in this text & IFI. T. 507, while it is left out in the title in the printed edn. (KSTS n° 31, 44, 48, 51, 56).

The text under notice deals with Ācāryābhiṣeka and Sādhakābhiṣeka (paṭ. IV. see KSTS Vol. II pp. 297-316), Samayācāra (paṭ. IV, KSTS Vol. II, pp. 38-43), Kālabhedavidhi (paṭ. VII, KSTS Vol. III, pp. 167-352) and Dīkṣāvidhi (paṭ. X, KSTS Vol. V-A, pp. 141-169). It does not contain the entire passages of the printed edn. (or of IFI. T. 570) except for the Kālabhedavidhi.

Contents

1. Fol.. 125b: Ācāryābhiṣeka; 2. 126a-129b: Sādhakābhiṣeka; 3. 129b-130a: Samayācāra; 4. 131a-160a: Kālabhedavidhi; 5. 161a-167b: Dīkṣāvidhi.

SIDDHĀNTAPRAKĀŚIKĀ
by Sarvātmaśambhu

RE 10.840. PL.; 23 fols.; 236 × 33 mms.; 7-9 lines; Grantha and Tamil; bad condition; old; origin: Vedāranyam.

Fly-leaf contains salutation to Mahāgaṇapati, etc. A leaf numbered 25 at the end of the Ms. contains a fragment of a treatise in Tamil on Śaiva philosophy.

In Public domain. Digitization Muthulakshmi Research Academy

The Siddhāntaprakāśikā by Sarvātmaśambhu is a Śaiva manual which gives the settled conclusions (siddhānta-s) of āgamic Śaivism. Incidentally it gives the conclusions of other systems of thought which include the Veda-s, Śāstra-s, Darśana-s both āstika and nāstika, other Śaiva schools and Pāñcarātra. The Ms. is incomplete by a few passages at the end. IFI. T. 251 (copy of the Ms. n° 3971 of Tirupati O. R. Institute) contains the following lines at the end: iti sarvamateṣviṣṭā(sā)siddhāntaprakāśikā / sarvātmaśambhunā vyaktā kalpitā śaivasammatā // See also Adyar Des. Cat. Vol. X, p. 541. Sarvātmaśambhu is mentioned as his teacher by Aghoraśivācārya (see Mataṅgapārameśvarāgama, p. XI, IFI. Pub. n° 56). This text is also called as Śaivasiddhāntadīpikā T. 284 pp. 30-38.

There is a Tamil version of this work by Mādhavaśivajñānasvāmin published by V. Cidambara Ramaiingam Pillai in Madras, 1947. It mentions seven divisions of this work which are not marked in any Ms. of the Sanskrit text.

This Ms. contains the Sanskrit text of the Jñānapāda of the Pauṣkarāgama (see n° 168.4 and 179.1) with Tamil commentary by Kumārasāraṅgadeva. The Ms. is in two parts with different numbering of the fols. The first part (80 fols.) contains chapters 1-3 and 94 śl. in paṭala 4. The second part (55 fols.) contains chapers 7 and 8. No details are known about the commentator. This text is identical with the printed edn. of the Śivajñānabodhayantraśālā (Madras 1981). This edn. (which does not mention the name Kumārasāraṅgadeva anywhere) gives the purport of each śloka after giving the Tamil meaning for each word which is not found in this Ms.

DĪKṢĀDARŚA
Daśakārya

RE 10.845. PL.; 63 fols.; 188 × 36 mms.; 8 lines; bad condition; Grantha; date: Nala, Makara 11; scribe or owner: Satyajñāni ?; origin: Vedaranyam
Blank folios: 1b & 63b.

Fol. 1a contains an invocation to all deities from Śiva to Vighneśa who is referred to here as Naṭavighneśa. Satyajñānamuni is also saluted.

The Dīkṣādarśa is a compendium of initiation – rites compiled in the 16th century by Nigamajñāna (see Śaivāgamaparibhāṣāmañjarī, Pub. IFI. n° 60, p. 9, and IFI. T. 76, T. 153, T. 279, T. 372). This Ms. contains the treatment of Daśakārya, that is to say, the ten topics that are to be known and realised by an ardent devotee of Śiva. They are to be taken as broadly divided into three groups, comprising of Tattva, Ātman and Śiva. The first two have three stages of study, form (rūpa), understanding (darśana) and method of purification respectively. The third has four stages, form (rūpa) understanding (darśana), yoga and bhoga respectively. While dealing with each of the three categories (tattva, ātman, Śiva), the definition is given and inquiry undertaken for each tattva. Under ātman, treatment is given to ātman, antarātman, tattvātman, jīvātman and paramātman.

In Public domain. Digitization Muthulakshmi Research Academy

The treatment is in the form of verse, with profuse extracts from various sources such as Kāmikāgama, Pauṣkarāgama, Mataṅga, Mṛgendra, Cintya, Kiraṇa, Suprabheda, Sarvajñānottara, Vātula, Lalita, Devīkālottara, Raurava, Niśśvāsakārikā, Siddhāntaśekhara, Siddhāntasārāvali, Siddhāntarahasya, Jñānasiddhi, Svacchandabhairava, Siddhāntapaddhati, Parākhya and others. The list of ten topics is quoted (fol. 29) from Uttarakāmikāgama (chap. 24, Vijñānadīkṣāvidhi; see IFI. T. 298B p. 202; the chapter is missing in SIAA grantha edn., but is added as an appendix to the Saṇskrit Introduction in the recent Devanagari edn.). IFI. T. 317(1) treats this topic in pp. 432-495 and reproduces the above passage from the Kāmika in p. 432.

172.11 ŚIVĀṢṬOTTARAŚATANĀMASTOTRA
(Bhaviṣyottarapurāṇa)

Same as n° 162.11.

This text contains śloka-s composed of various names of Śiva. This is incomplete. D. 9241 of GOML. contains the nāmāvali of this stotra under the title Rudrāṣṭottaraśatanāmāvali; BK. I pp. 209-210 with the name Śivāṣṭottaraśatanāmastotra is identical with this text. Cf. BR. (1965) I n° 219.

172.12 ŚIVASTOTRA

This text contains 37 ½ śloka-s in praise of Śiva. The whole stotra is found incorporated by Aghoraśivācārya in his Kriyākramadyotikā pp. 120-123 (Chidambaram edn.). Both according to the text under notice and Aghoraśivācārya's work, the śloka-s are classified under divisions containing 15, 8, 5 ½, 7 and 2 śloka-s, mentioning for their source, Raurava, Vidyāpāda, paṭala 2, śl. 6-19 for the first, Śrīmatkiraṇa Vidyāpāda, paṭala 1, śl. 1-9 for the second, Ṣaṭsāhasrikā for the third and Śrīmanmataṅgapārameśvara, Vidyāpāda, paṭala 1, śl. 16-21a for the fourth. The Adyar Ms. Des. Cat. II, p. 199, Ms. n° 1224 contains only śl. 1 to 15 and the Ms. is called Sadāśivastotra. In the Adyar Library Ms. (Des. Cat. I. p. 20), it is mentioned as taken from the Rudrayāmala.

This stotra contains the word kālañjaranivāsinam in the fourth pāda of the first śloka. This word means that Śiva has a shrine in Kālañjara, a town and hill-fort, near Bundelkhand in Banda Dt., Madhyapradesh. Vatsarāja, the author of six dramatic plays (GOS. 8), refers in the prologue of the Kirātārjunīyavyāyoga, and Karpūracaritabhāṇa, to the festivals in the temple of Nīlakaṇṭha there. A temple of Viṣṇu is also suggested in his Rukmiṇīharaṇehāmṛga (see prologue). Vatsarāja's patrons were two Chandella kings of the 12-13th centuries, Paramardideva and his son Trailokyavarmadeva of whom the first is said to have composed a stotra in praise of Śiva. Both the kings were given the title "ruler of Kālañjara".

172.14 SUBRAHMAṆYADAŚANĀMASTOTRA

This text contains ten names of salutation to Subrahmaṇya and his nine attendant deities. A few śloka-s of prayer are addressed to him. There are the names of 9 attendant deities of Subrahmaṇya. Nine gems such as Padmarāga (ruby etc.) fell from the anklet of the goddess out of which nine daughters were born. Each of them gave birth to a son who became attendants of Subrahmaṇya (see Skāndamahāpurāṇa, Sambhavakāṇḍa, ch. 27). So each word of salutation begins with the name of one or the other precious stone. This appears to be a rare text.

Fol. 38a contains a song stating that Śivaprakāśa writes a commmentary on Tirukkaliṟ ṟuppaṭiyār; 85a-88b gives the information regarding the publication and other matters about Tiruvuntiyār and its commentary, 155a-156a contains the introduction to the Śivaprakāśa in the commentary on this work by Madurai Śivaprakāśa; 185b gives references to the commentary of Madurai Śivaprakāśa; 236 contains some family accounts like getting salary for reading Aṭaṅkaṉmuṟai before God at Pullattūr (Pudukkottai Dt.) on Mondays, a Tēvāram song, and some note on family affair (Tamil), and an index for the Tirukkaḷiṟṟuppaṭiyār and Tiruvuntiyār.

173.1 TIRUKKAḶIṞṞUPPAṬIYĀR

This work (second in the list), written by Tirukkaṭavūr Uyyavanta Tēvanāyaṉār, an author of low caste, was tested at Chidambaram when it was placed before the deity Naṭarāja. The stone image of the elephant, carved in the steps of the citsabhā, took it and placed it at the feet of the Lord. Hence the words kaḷi-elephant and paṭi-step occur in the title of this work. It is held that this author belonged to Tirukkaṭavūr and was a disciple of Tiruviyalūr Uyyavanta Tēvanāyaṉār, author of Tiruvuntiyār. Vide:– N.C. Kantaiya Pillai: Tamiḻ Pulavar Akarāti pp. 220-221.

In 100 verses, this text gives the import of Tiruvuntiyār which treats the subject matter of the Jñānapāda of the Śaivāgama-s. The text is complete. This text has a gloss, consisting merely in introducing each verse in a few lines. The Murukesa Mudaliar's edn. (Madras 1892) mentions the commentator's name as Tillaiccirṟampalavar, also known as Civappirakācanār. The printed edn. contains a detailed commentary.

173.2 IRUPĀVIRUPATU

This work (fifth in the list), written by Aruḷnanti Civācāriyār, contains twenty stanzas in Veṇpā and Akaval metres; hence the word irupā, meaning two kinds of poems, is prefixed to the title of this text. It deals with the three categories, pati, paśu and pāśa.

173.3 TIRUVUNTIYĀR

This work (first in the list) was written by Tiruviyalūr Uyyavanta Tēvanāyaṉār. Āḷuṭaiya Tēvanāyaṉār met the author and requested him to instruct him on the means by which he could cross over wordly existence. Thereupon, the author offered instructions on the nature of self, Śiva, mala, māyā and others in a nut-shell. These are given in forty-five verses in this text, each containing within it the knowledge of the topics presented in a nutshell. This is a special kind of composition in Tamil with verses in three lines, in which the word untīpara will be repeated in the second and third lines. Untīpara means a play by young girls. These verses are sung by young girls when they play. Such compositions are specially written to make even children understand and practice religion and other matters.

173.4 TIRUVARUṬPAYAṈ

The author of this eighth work is Koṟṟavaṉkuṭi Umāpati Civācāriyār (14th c.) the well-known author of a commentary on Pauṣkarāgama, and Śataratnasaṃgraha who also wrote several other works on Śaivism. The author explains that final release is obtained through god's grace. He acquired the grace of Maṟaiñāṉacampantar, the pupil of Aruḷnanti Tēvar. This text is divided into ten sections called 1. Patimutunilai, 2. Pacunilai, 3. Pācanilai, 4. Aruḷatunilai, 5. Aruḷurunilai, 6. Aṟiyuneṟi, 7. Uyirviḷakkam, 8. Iṉpurunilai, 9. Anteḷuttaruṇilai, and 10. Aṇaintortaṇmai. This contains 100 verses + four, one at the beginning and three at the end. The printed text (Murukesa Mudaliar, Madras 1892) does not contain the three verses found at the end of this text.

173.5 VIṆĀVEṆPĀ

The author of this ninth work is Koṟṟavaṇkuṭi Umāpati Civācāriyār (see 173.4). This work offers, in 13 verses, the gist of the work Civappirakāca. The principles of Caivacittānta are given in brief. Questions are addressed to Ñāṇacampanta in each verse, his name being repeated there. This is printed at Madras in 1892 by Murukesa Mudaliar. This text agrees with GOML. Tamil D. 1406 and differs from Tanjore Ms. Des. Cat. Tamil II n° 695 (h).

173.6 UṆMAIVIḶAKKAM

The author of this sixth work is Tiruvatikai Maṇavācakaṅkaṭantār who is one of the disciples of Meykkaṇṭār. In fifty four verses, this text deals with the Śaivasiddhānta philosophy. There is an additional verse numbered 55 which mentions the author as having composed this work. This is printed in CP.

175.1 VILLIPĀRATAM

This text contains, in Tamil verses, the Section IV of Uttiyokaparuva of the Makāpārata of Villipputtūrār of the 15th century. Kṛṣṇa's work as a messenger on behalf of the Pāṇḍavas is recounted in 257 verses. The printed edn. of V.M. Satakoparamanujacharya and C. Krishnamacharya, Kannan Press, Madras 1964 has 264 verses in this Parva. The text has also a Tamil gloss whose authorship is not known. This agrees well with Ms. n° 64 of the Tanjore Library, Vide:– Tamil Cat. I pp. 343-345.

An unnumbered fol., at the beginning, contains verses with gloss in praise of Vināyaka. These are not found in the printed edn. Fol. 1 A(1) has a reference to the part played by Sahadeva which has no bearing on the contents of the text. The text begins with the commentary on verse 6 (3 in the printed edn.) and goes to the end of this section.

175.9 PUVAṆAKŌCAM

This text gives a geographical description of the world in Tamil. The date that is given on fol. 155a corresponds to 13th October 1834 A.D. It is doubtful whether the English year 1834 which is given here was known as such for the Indian writers at that period. Attanekcattiram may refer to the constellation Hasta but this is not correct by ephemerical calculations. The constellation on that day is Dhaniṣṭhā which in Tamil is Aviṭṭa.

175.14 ŚIVAJÑĀNASIDDHISVAPAKṢA-DṚṢṬĀNTASAṄGRAHA

See 156.2. This text contains the definition of pramāṇa-s according to Śaivasiddhānta. The author is Vedajñānaśivācārya (C. 1600 A.D.) Vide:– Śaivāgamaparibhāṣāmañjarī, IFI. Pub. n° 60 Introduction, pp. 7-11. Aruḷnanti is the author of the Śivajñānasiddhi, the commentary on Śivajñānabodha. This is in two parts: parapakṣa and svapakṣa. The Śivajñānasiddhi is in the form of Tamil verse of which the first fourteen deal with the definitions of pramāṇa-s and so get the comprehensive name Aḷavaiyilakkaṇam. The text, under notice contains, gloss in Sanskrit for this portion. The words, which begin the verses and which occur at the end of each verse, are stated at the beginning of the commentary of each verse. Citations are given from the Siddhatantra, Suprabheda and Pauṣkara. IFI. T. 317-2, pp. 968-976 contains this text without the beginning and concluding portions. After discussing the number of pramāṇa-s according to the various schools, perception, inference and verbal testimony are admitted as the pramāṇa-s for the Śaiva system.

Same as No. 161.

This text contains śl. 11-134a in the Tattvabhedapaṭala of the Vātulaśuddhākhya, an upāgama of the Vātulāgama. For details, see n° 161. At the end, there are seven śloka-s, of which two treat prosodial instants and the remaining five mātṛkānyāsa. Treatment of the latter is similar to the one found in Kālottarāgama IFI. T. 59, ch. VII p. 35 śloka-s 6-12. This Ms. of the Vātulaśuddha has many variant readings.

177.1 VARṆĀŚRAMĀCĀRAVIDHI (Kāmikopabheda).

This text offers a treatment of the conduct of the Śaivites professing caste and orders. Purification is dealt with at the outset for all pollutions including those which are caused by the death of a person. Śrāddha-s of various kinds are treated. Paśulakṣaṇa, Pratyābdikaśrāddha and Kalāśodhana are then dealt with. Fols. 15a & 16b have the words dvitīya sarga and tṛtīya sarga in the margin. It is not, however, clear why the word, sarga, is used here, which is normally used in poems (kāvya). It is equally hard to find out the portion which should form part of the first sarga. The text contains 165 śloka-s. According to the colophon on fol. 16b, the author is the sage Praṇava, and the treatment is based on one of the upāgama of the Kāmikāgama; it may be an extract or a part of an Upāgama. Praṇava, Trikala and Hara are the three Śiva-s who were taught Kāmikāgama by the Supreme Paramaśiva.

177.2 VARṆĀŚRAMASAMAYĀCĀRACANDRIKĀ
(Kāmikopabheda)

Similar to n° 177.1.

From the colophon on fol. 52b (iti durvāsasā proktaṃ pradīpanṛpateḥ puraḥ / babhāṇa jiṣṇave paścāt hārīto munipuṅgavaḥ / iti varṇāśramasamayācāracandrikānāmni śrīmadupāgame durvāsapradīpasallāpe muktitattvajñāne vicāraṃ kiñcit paryavasitam /), it is learnt that what Durvāsas uttered on the conduct of castes and stages in life was reproduced by the sage Hārīta to king Pradīpa. This topic forms part of the "Upāgama" of the mūlāgama Kāmika. The other colophons (fol. 40a, 66a, 80b & 88a) mention this text as forming part of a Hārītopākhyāna. Hārīta is the narrator. Vide:– colophon fol. 32b. Here it is said that this text illumines or makes clear the subject matter muktitattvajñāna,dealt with in the Upāgama. Hārīta was well-versed in Āgama texts like Kāmika (fol. 40a) and in the 28 Āgama texts (fol. 66a). Indra is stated to have raised some problems which were clarified by Hārīta (fol. 66a, 80b & 88a). In this connection, see the introductory section, Mṛgendrāgama, Vidyāpāda (which is also an Upāgama of the Kāmikāgama) in which Indra narrated the text to sage Hārīta and Hārīta narrated the same to the sages.

The text is divided into sections called upadeśa. However, the expression aṣṭamasarga is written on the margin of fol. 65a. The text n° 171.1 is divided into sarga-s but this cannot suggest that 171.1 & 171.2 could have formed a single text. Upadeśa 5, 6, 8 & 9 are marked in the margin of fols. 22b, 32b, 37b, 40a, 46b & 70b respectively. The colophon on fols. 58a, 66a, 80b and 88a mention the upadeśas as 7, 9, 10 & 11. The fols. 38a, 40a, 48b & 52b have fresh numbering. The essence of the Śaiva philosophy is given in 56 śloka-s in fols. 48b-52a. Writing is in Tamil on fols. 60a-62a & 70b-79b. On the margin of fol. 59a, the words dakṣinadeśe anuṣṭheya are written indicating the treatment from this fol. is about the practices which prevail in South India, perhaps Tamil Nadu. Fol. 20 which follows fol. 19 immediately does not form part of this text, as the next fol. 20 is in continuation of fol. 19. Similarly, fol. bearing n° 44a having the writings in only one line does not form part of this text. This text is different from the printed text with the name Varṇāśramacandrikā, Grantha, Kumbakonam, 1930.

177.3 CANDRAJÑĀNĀGAMA
Śivasthalādistava

This text contains verses in praise of the shrines of Śiva, the forms of Śiva, Śivaśakti, Śivarūpa etc. At the end, sage Praṇava is stated to have given a discourse on these topics to Viṣṇu. Bṛhaspati, who listened to this, conveyed it to Indra. Sage Hārīta is stated to have given an exposition of these topics following the expressions in the Candrajñāna Āgama. The verses are not numbered in proper order, as in fol. 90a, 92a and 97a. IFI. T. 12 & T. 185 do not contain the treatment of this topic.

177.8 MUKTISĀDHANA
(Candrajñāna and Lalitāgama)

This text deals with the means of attaining mukti. Realisation of one's union with Śiva is declared as the means and this is to be achieved in the state of jīvanmukti which is stated in 20 śl. as attainable through initiation(dīkṣā). Yogic practice is then declared in the Candrajñānāgama as the means. The same is explained further on the line of treatment contained in the Lalitāgama. 178.4 KĀMIKĀGAMA (UTTARA)
Bāṇaliṅgapratiṣṭhā

This text deals with the installation of Bāṇaliṅga; it contains śl. 1-41a of chap. 36 of the SIAA edn. of the Uttarakāmikāgama (or chap. 38 of the work as given in IFI. T. 298B where the title is: Bāṇaliṅgodbhavapratiṣṭhāvidhi).

178.6 KĀMIKĀGAMA (UTTARA)
Aṅgaliṅgapratiṣṭhā

This is ch. 42 of the Uttarakāmikāgama (SIAA edn.). It deals with Aṅgaliṅga. The "principal" (pradhāna) liṅga is the one installed in the main temple to which are related the maṇḍapa-s, parivāra-s, gopura-s, prākāra-s etc. Aṅgaliṅga-s are the other liṅga-s

178.7 KĀMIKĀGAMA (UTTARA-)
Sārvadeśikaliṅgapratiṣṭhā

This text, which corresponds to Uttarakāmika 41.2-11a (SIAA edn.), deals with the installation of the Liṅga called Sārvadeśika which may be installed in any region, in any circumstance and for any purpose. At the end, a line in Tamil and Sanskrit asks the reader to find in the Kāmikāgama further details on the varieties of temples and of the results announced by the āyādi – computation of measurements.

178.8 LIṄGALAKṢAṆA

This text deals with the characteristics of the man-made Liṅga. This topic is treated in all the Kriyāpāda-s (eg. Ajitāgama IFI. Pub. n° 24-I p. 22).

178.9 SUPRABHEDĀGAMA

This contains extracts from the Suprabhedāgama (see n° 122): Prāyaścitta, Liṅgapratiṣṭhā and Tantrasaṃkara are dealt with in this text. Under Prāyaścitta, expiatory rites for lapses while doing pūjā, and Adbhutaśānti are dealt with. The treatment of this topic has close agreement with that in ch. 55, Kriyāpāda of the printed edn. (Madras 1908). While dealing with Liṅgapratiṣṭhā seven kinds of liṅga are enumerated and their installation is described in six śloka-s for each, except for the last. The printed edn. (Kriyāpāda chap. 36) does not have the śloka-s for the first kind. The text under notice calls the third kind of liṅga as Gāṇa, while the printed edn. names it as Divya. Śaiva texts, are stated, while treating the third topic, to be of four kinds, Śaiva, Pāśupata, Soma, and Lākula. The first is stated to be saumya and the other three as raudra. Admixture of the practices in rituals of one with those of others is prohibited. Treatment of this agrees with that in the printed edn. (Kriyāpāda chap. 56) but breaks off in śloka 14a.

178.10 AṂŚUMADĀGAMA
Puṇyāhavidhi

See n° 91.24. Here the matter is taken from the Aṃśumadāgama. IFI. T. 158 contains the beginning of this on p. 188, breaks off in the next page and concludes on p. 207.

Beginning

178.11 ADHVASAṂKHYĀNA

This text deals with the purification of the path (adhvan) which are six (mantra, pada, varṇa, tattva, bhuvana and kalā). Incidentally the measurements for some of the pāśa-s (bonds) and created beings and objects are also given. This purification is intended to be used in the act of initiation. The treatment is short and has no beginning. The source could not be traced. See 1. Mataṅgapārameśvarāgama (IFI. Pub. n° 56, Vidyāpāda ch. 24); 2. Suprabheda (Vidyāpāda, ch. 3, Madras edn., 1908); 3. This gives the list of materials which are to be used while giving ablution to the idol. Twenty five materials are mentioned here. IFI. T. 184, 288 & 695, emumerate about a dozen, while T. 232 and 680, fourteen and T. 349, about forty.

On fol. 23a, Paḍikkaṭṭaḷai abhiṣekakrama is written to denote the name of the subject matter dealt with here. It means the measurement of the materials to be used according to the endowment made by the devotee.

178.13 ĀTMĀRTHAPRĀYAŚCITTAVIDHI
by Nigamajñāna

The Ātmārthaprāyaścittavidhi forms part of the Ātmārthapūjāpaddhati compiled in the 16th c. by Nigamajñāna (see IFI. Pub. n° 60, pp. 7-8 and IFI. T. 371 pp. 1112-1120). It lays down the procedure for undertaking the rituals of expiation for the shortcomings that occur while performing personal worship done generally in one's house. It contains citations from Kālottara, Kāmika, Cintyaviśva, Ṣaṭsāhasrikā, Sūkṣma, Tilakaparameśvara etc. The text under notice contains four more śloka-s (beyond the concluding one) than the work as given in IFI. T. 371 (see above).

178.14 ĀTMĀRTHĀṢṬABANDHANAVIDHI

This text deals with the procedure for doing aṣṭabandhana to the liṅga used in personal worship when it gets worn out. This is almost similar in treatment to that in IFI. T. 370 pp. 300-302.

178.18 PRĀSĀDACANDRIKĀ
by Aruṇadeva

The Prāsādacandrikā is a work on prāsāda, the mūlamantra: pra means knowledge of Śiva, sā denotes the way for attaining mokṣa and da conveys the form of Śiva (fol. 35a, śl. 2). The text explains how this mantra is to be repeated in order to get mokṣa. Samarasa and Viṣuva are stated to be the two ways for repeating this mantra (fol. 35a, śl. 6). The former is the bare existence of everything in which all differences disappear (fol. 36b, śl. 39). The latter stands for effecting the union between the soul, mind and vital airs (fol. 37b, śl. 58). The text under notice begins with śloka 32, followed by śl. 31 & 33 and by 1, 2 etc. (according to the printed edn. CP. 1910). When compared with the printed edn. the śloka-s in the text are neither properly numbered nor are they in order; their total number is 157 while it is 154 ½ in the printed edn. IFI. T. 93 & 536 contain this text (the latter has 149 śloka-s). Adyar Des. Cat. Vol. X (pp. 516-517) and its Transcript copy (IFI. T. 93 p. 12) mention Aruṇadeva ,pupil of Jñānaprakāśaśivācārya, as the compiler of this work.

178.19 MAHĀJĀLAPRAYOGA

Same as n° 91.32. Also see Kriyākramadyotikā, comm. Prabhā, p. 409.

This text offers, in seven śloka-s, the way in which Mahājāla is to be used by the preceptor during funeral rites. The name Mahājāla comprises of all the material objects, and is made up of dharma and adharma. It is described to be a net. Ācārya shall employ the mantra-s effectively and keep it under control through yoga and transfer the soul of the departed into this net.

There are seven Mss. in IFI. with nos. T. 111, 246(3), 500, 507A, 570, 632 and 661. Except T. 507A and 570 which begin respectively with śl. 1a and with śl. 9a, these have śl. 1b-8b and among them, some have dropped few lines. IFI. T. 246(3) has a section in 15 śloka-s on Mahājāla which is different from that in the text under notice. T. 570 has the expression Siddhāntaśekhara at the beginning. This cannot be admitted, since the work Siddhāntaśekhara does not treat this topic. Mahājāla and other expressions are symbolical. The Kāmikāgama (Uttara-) S.I.A.A. ch. 27, śl. 67-74 speaks of Mahājāla in Nirvāṇāntyeṣṭi.

178.21 PRĀSĀDAVYĀKHYĀ

This text contains the Prāsādamantra along with a Tamil commentary upon it. There are eight śloka-s here of which the first two form part of the Prāsādacandrikā (śl. 27b-28b) (see 178.18) and the last two form part of the Kāraṇāgama (Pūrva 30. 212). The source for the others is not known. The Sanskrit words in the śloka-s are explained in Tamil.

178.22 SIDDHĀNTASĀRĀVALI
Prāsādamantravyākhyā

See 145.1 and 178.17. This contains the text and commentary for śloka-s 6-12 in the Kriyāpāda of the Siddhāntasārāvali. The commentary agrees with that of Anantaśambhu (printed text GOML. Vol. XVII-XX Bulletin) and in IFI. T. 299 & 375 but the agreement is only partial. Several passages, which are cited in the commentary of Anantaśambhu, are not found in the text under notice. Passages found in this text on śl. 12 are not found in the printed edn. and IFI. T. cited above.

179.1 PAUṢKARĀGAMA

Jñānapāda

Same as n° 168.4.

This text contains chapters 1 & 2 of this Āgama and breaks off in śloka 5 of the 3rd chapter. The Pauṣkarāgama is the fourth among the seven upāgama-s of the Pārameśvara (26th Mūlāgama), the other six being: Mātaṅga, Yakṣiṇīpadma, Pārameśvara, Suprayoga, Haṃsa and Sāmānya. Pauṣkarāgama is the name according to Śaivabhūṣaṇa but it is Puṣkara according to the Kāmika (Pūrva) 1. 87b (S.I.A.A). Its Jñānapāda has been printed: 1. Chidambaram – Grantha – 1925 (with the Bhāṣya of Umāpatiśivācārya); 2. CP. Madras, Grantha, with Tamil meaning.

BHUVANAKOŚA and KĀMIKA(ĀGAMA)

RE 10.870. PL.; 293 folios; 405 × 38 mms.; 3-7 lines, Grantha and Tamil; good condition; recent; origin: Vedāraṇyam.
Blank folios: Reverse side of the fly-leaf and fol. 1b.

General contents

1. Fols. 1[c]a & 1[c]b: Bhuvanakośa; 2. 1a-290b: Kāmikāgama (inc.)

The obverse side of the fly-leaf contain 2 ½ lines of a poem enumerating the things of good omen. Fol. 1a has a note on valmīka (anthill) and the results of its presence in certain places.

181.1 BHUVANAKOŚA

Similar to 175.9. This text contains an account of the world grouped into seven kinds each having eight component parts. The names of seven groups are given as Jñānaṣṭaka, Kriyāṣṭaka, Yogāṣṭaka, Devayonyaṣṭaka, Bhūtayonyaṣṭaka, Bhūtāṣṭaka and Śatāṣṭaka. The words iti svāyambhuve at the end suggests the source for this treatment. However the available text of Svāyambhuva names them as Guhyāṣṭaka, Śuddhāṣṭaka, Devāṣṭaka, Puryāṣṭaka, Yogāṣṭaka, Mahādevāṣṭaka and Svāṅguṣṭhāṣṭaka (T. 1019 pp. 347-348). Guhya, Pavitra, Sthāna, Devayoni and Puri are the only five kinds mentioned in the Suprabheda (pp. 335-336) printed edn. Madras, Grantha, 1908. Kiraṇa (pp. 27-28) printed at Kumbakonam (1932) mentions Sthāṇvaṣṭaka in the place of Sthāna and has only five groups. In many of these texts, Atiguhya and Guhyātiguhya occur as the names of the groups. For further details, see Rauravāgama I (IFI. Pub. 18) p. 12.

181.2 KĀMIKĀGAMA (?)

This text is a "Kāmikāgama" in thre sections which is different from the well-known work with the same title. Its three sections are called Sṛṣṭikāṇḍa, Sthitikāṇḍa and Saṃhārakāṇḍa treated in fols. 1-69, 70-242 and 243-284 respectively. This is called by several names Kāmikamahātantra (fol. 5b), Mahātantra (fol. 85a), Kāmikaśivāgama (fol. 11b, 142b), Kāmikopodghāta (fols. 34a, 50b), Mahāśaivāgama (fol. 57a) and Uttarakāmika (fol. 100b). The colophons on fols. 69b & 95a mention that Sṛṣṭikāṇḍa contains 1000 crores of paṭala-s. It is in the form of dialogue between Umā and Śiva called Saṃvāda in 5 chapters (fols. 14b, 34a, 224b, 242b, 246b) and as Sallāpa in 3 chapters (fol. 69a, 135b, 198b). Maheśvara is the instructor (fol. 100b). Likewise, Hārīta (fol. 167b) and Praṇavarṣi (fol. 14b, 69a) give the discourse. Questions are raised by Praṇavarṣi (fol. 76a, 247b), Umā (56b), Indra (fol. 69a, 100b, 104b, 142b, 145b, 167b, 176b, 183b, 186b & 198b). Some chapters are called Upākhyāna e.g., Vratopākhyāna (fol. 167b), Rudropākhyāna (fol. 167b) and Hārītopākhyāna (fols. 176b, 183a, 186b & 198b). Some divisions are found with the name Pāda e.g., Kriyāpāda, (fols. 42a, 53a, 107b, 135b, 167b, 230b, 233b, 272b, 275a, 275b, 284b), Jñānapāda (fols. 81b, 238b, & 246b) and Caryāpāda (fols. 50b, 56b, 103a, & 266b). Kriyākāṇḍa (108b, 137a, 142b, 145b, 161b, 179b, 180b, 193a, 201a, 205b & 224b) and Saṃhārakāṇḍa (fol. 246b) also appear as names of divisions of this text. Intermingling of the names like Jñāna, Kriyā and Caryā with one of them as subordinated to another is found frequently. They are Jñānapādāntarhitaśivayogapāda (fol. 14b), Jñānapādāntarhitacaryāpāda (fol. 43a), Jñānapādāntarhitakriyāpāda (fol. 241a), Kriyāntarhitajñānapāda (fol. 24b), and Caryāntarhitakriyāpāda (fols. 28a, 57a, 208b, 210b & 212a). There are Jñānayogapāda (fol. 16b), Kriyāviśiṣṭajñānapāda (fol. 100b), Caryāntarbhūtajñānapraśaṃsā (fol. 104b), and Kriyāntarhitajñānarūpa (fol. 180b). All these particulars are found distributed among all the three main sections.

Among the 54 chapters which this text contains, 30 are named paṭala-s, of which 16 are numbered, 9 are called upadeśa and numbered and 15 are not called by any name. The numbers given to the paṭala-s are not in any order. The colophon on fol. 100b numbers the paṭala as 1330.

On the whole, there is no orderly treatment of all the topics in the text. Broadly, there is only a sort of agreement in the treatment of the topics in each of the sections. Sanskrit and Tamil are used in fols. 6b, 58a-65a, 138a and 201a-205b.

How this text is named as Kāmika seems to be a mystery. Naming and mixing up of sections in a manner different from what is found in the Śaiva basic texts, and the absence of citation from this text under the title of Kāmika in any other work go to show that this, though having the title, is not the Mūlāgama, Kāmika.

182.2 SARVAJÑĀNOTTARA
(Yogapāda & Jñānapāda)

See n° 162.18.

The text under notice contains the Yogapāda in one chapter like the other Mss. and the Jñānapāda (also Vidyāpāda, fol. 49b, l.5.) in 4 chapters (prakaraṇa) like IFI. T. 334. The printed edition as well as IFI. T. 760 gives it in 7 chapters of which chap. 3 to 5 and 6-7 correspond respectively to chap. 3 & 4 of the text under notice. The total number of verses for the Jñānapāda is 202 in the text under notice; there are two more in IFI. T. 760 (in the 2nd chapter) and 37 more in the printed edn. (some are added at the beginning and the middle of the Bhūtātmaprakaraṇa). The prose passages found in the chap. 3 in IFI. T. 334 and 760 are not found here.

182.3 ŚAIVABHŪṢAṆA

by Paramānandayogin (or Pañcākṣarayogin)
(with Tamil gloss)

See n° 194.4.

This is a manual of Śaiva rituals and contains śl. 1-8 with a Tamil gloss. This is printed. (Devakottai) 1925. The work begins with a salutation to Vināyaka which is not found in the printed edn.; on fol. 50a the work is ascribed to Paramānandayogin, disciple of Jñānācārya of Kāñcīpuram. The leaves are fresh and the writing is recent. However in the printed edition, p. 2, the author is mentioned as Pañcākṣarayogin and in brackets it is mentioned that Paramānandayogin is a reading for Pañcākṣarayogin. The date of the work is given at the end as Śālīvāhanaśaka 1560 (1638 A.D).

182.4 TRIPADĀRTHANIRṆAYA

This text deals with the three categories of Śaivism, namely pati, paśu and pāśa. Except for a few verses here and there, the text is in prose. The exact source of the text is not known but this matter is treated in all the Vidyāpāda-s of the Śaivāgama-s; however the number of padārtha-s may vary from 3 to 7 (see Mataṅgapārameśvarāgama, IFI. Pub. n° 56, pp. XVIII-XIX & XLVI-XLVII).

182.7 SIDDHĀNTAŚIKHĀMAṆI
of Jñānaprakāśa

This text contains the Siddhāntaśikhāmaṇi of Jñānaprakāśa of Śālivāṭī, a holy place in the Jaffna district of Sri Lanka. (See n° 136.1).

This text consists of two chapters called Ānandapariccheda and Śivasamatāpariccheda. In the former, the author discusses the meaning of the word śivānanda. The concept of Samarasībhāva, equality in enjoying bliss which is dealt with in the Prāsādacandrikā, gets detailed discussion in the second chapter. Seven kinds of mokṣa are mentioned in this chapter (fol. 102b).

The work begins with prayers and salutations addressed to deities and to Sadyojyoti protogonist of the dualistic Śaivasiddhānta of Kashmir (c. 900 A.D.) and pupil of Ugrajyoti and Rāmakaṇṭha, son of Nārāyaṇakaṇṭha (11th century A.D.) of Kashmir.

Profuse citations are found in this Ms. from a large number of works. Among the Āgama works, Pauṣkara, Sarvajñānottara and Mṛgendra are frequently cited, having 13, 7, and 8 references. Other Āgama-s that are cited less frequently are the Vātula, Cintya, Kiraṇa, Devīkālottara, Mataṅga, Svāyambhuva, Cintyaviśvasādākhya, Parākhya, Niśvāsa, Kāmika, Suprabheda, Svacchanda, Raurava, Kālottara, Triśatīkālottara, Lalitabheda, Dviśatīkālottara and Mohaśūrottara.

Many other important works are mentioned and cited, e.g. Nārāyaṇakaṇṭha's (11th century A.D.) commentary on the Mṛgendra (fol. 73b) Rāmakaṇṭha's commentary on the Kiraṇāgama (fol. 75b) and Mataṅga (fol. 80b, 83a), and Sadyojyoti's commentary on the Svāyambhuvāgama (fol. 114a). Among these three writers, Sadyojyoti is referred to as Sadyojyotiṣpāda and Sarvavidyāpagānāṃpati, the lord of the rivers of all lores (fol. 86b). Besides the commentaries on the two Āgama texts cited above, Rāmakaṇṭha is stated in this Ms. as having written a commentary upon the Paramokṣanirāsakārikā of Sadyojyoti (fol. 83a). He is referred to as Bhagavān by Jñānaprakāśa in citing his views (Cf. 80b, 83a). His commentary on the Bhogakārikā is mentioned on fol. 75b without mentioning his name but calling him as Ācārya. There is a citation from the Vyomavyāpistava of Rāmakaṇṭha (fol. 114a), Mss. of which are available in our Mss. collection

The following works of Sadyojyoti are frequently cited: Bhogakārikā, Mokṣakārikā, Paramokṣanirāsakārikā, Tattvasaṃgraha, and Tattvatrayanirṇaya. Frequent citations are there from the Ratnatraya of Śrīkaṇṭha, the pupil of Rāmakaṇṭha I. On fol. 107a, Bṛhaspati is cited for his view by the author. He is mentioned along with Sadyojyoti by Aghoraśivācārya in his commentary on the Mokṣakārikā (VVS. p. 1). Bṛhaspati lived in the 9th century. (Bhāskari Vol. III by Dr. K.C. Pandey, Lucknow University, Historical Approach p. XVI). Other noteworthy authors and works are Somaśambhupaddhati (referred to as Somaśambhu) (fol. 73a), Trilocanaśivācārya and his Siddhāntasārāvali (fol. 73a, 94a, 105a, 114b, 121a), Bhoja's Tattvaprakāśikā (fol. 100a), Aghoraśivācārya (fol. 72b, 96b), Mahābhārata, Sūtasaṃhitā and Śivadharma. Expressions like 'anyatra' and 'taduktam' occur frequently. Words like 'nayavit', (fol. 89a), 'kecit', 'vedāntinaḥ' and others are used to refer to the views which are not admitted by the author. Except Pūjāstava (fol. 97a) of Jñānaśiva and Siddhāntadīpikā of Sarvātmaśambhu (fol. 81b, 116a, 120b), Siddhāntarahasya (fol. 79b, 114b), which is cited, could not be directly identified.

This work Siddhāntaśikhāmaṇi is different from the work with the same name whose author was Revaṇārādhya.

From the introductory verses and the concluding portion it seems that this is complete.

At the end, the date of the Ms. is given as Pramodūta year, Māśi month, second day, Saturday.

182.9 VYOMAVYĀPISTAVA
by Rāmakaṇṭha
(with Vedajñāna's commentary)

The text under notice contains the complete stotra in praise of the "all pervasive" (Vyomavyāpin) mantra composed by Rāmakaṇṭha II and the full commentary by Vedajñāna. Vyomavyāpistava contains 90 + 1 verses in Āryā metre (see fol. 143a) discussing the meaning and the method of worship of the 81 words of the mantra (Cf. n° 111.13). IFI. T. 128 contains the complete text of the stava as well as the comm. About Rāmakaṇṭha II. see IFI. Pub. n° 56 (pp. VIII... and XXXIX...) and about Vedajñāna see IFI. Pub. n° 60 (pp. 7-11). The commentator refers to his other work Bṛhaṭṭīkā (fol. 142b & 190a) and the present commentary is the Laghuṭīkā.

182.11 MṚGENDROTPATTI

This text in Tamil entitled as Mirukēntirōtpatti is an index of the topics dealt with in the Vidyāpāda of the Mṛgendrāgama (see n° 182.12). Fol. 205 contains an account of the origin of this Upāgama which is taught by Narasiṃha to Indra. It is explained there that Narasiṃha is called Mṛgendra. The name of the upāgama is given as Nārasimha in Kāmika. But Nārāyaṇakaṇṭha in his commentary explains that this text taught by Narasiṃha is called Mṛgendra and it is an upāgama of Kāmika. (Pūrvakāmika – I, 31). Writing is on 2 columns.

182.12 MṚGENDRĀGAMA – (VIDYĀPĀDA)

This text contains the Vidyāpāda of the Mṛgendrāgama. The entire Āgama is in print. The Vidyā and Yogapāda-s are available in the Devakkottai edn. 1928, and also in the KSTS edn, serial n° 50 and the Kriyā and Caryāpāda-s are published by IFI. n° 23. The Vidyā and the Yogapāda-s have been translated into French (IFI. Pub. n° 63) and the Kriyā and Caryāpāda-s too (IFI. Pub. n° 69).

The text under notice is incomplete. It breaks off in ch. 11 – śloka 15. There is discrepancy in the number of śloka-s c ntained in each chapter called prakaraṇa in Devakkoṭṭai edn. and the text under notice.

183.27 KRIYĀKRAMADYOTIKĀ (?)
Pratiṣṭhādhivāsavidhi

This deals with preparatory rites while installing an image or liṅga: the image or liṅga is kept in water, milk, etc, for a specified time. Various types of pratiṣṭhā (installation of an image or liṅga) are also briefly discussed. Vīratantra, Varuṇapaddhati, etc, are quoted for support. The colophon on fol. 370b states this work as forming part of the Kriyākramadyotikā of Aghoraśivācārya. But so far, this topic is not found treated in any edition of the Kriyākramadyotikā. However, there is a text with this title in IFI. RE. 25307. Most probably this work is based on the Kriyākramadyotikā.

183.28 ĀTMĀRTHACALALIṄGAPRATIṢṬHĀVIDHI
by Candraśekharabhaṭṭāraka

This contains the procedure of installing cala (movable) liṅga for personal worship. The author mentions in the colophon on fol. 383a that he is the pupil of one Candraśekharabhaṭṭāraka, a resident of Kamalālayapura (Tiruvarur, Tanjavur Dt.), and that he himself bears the same name. As stated by the author (fol. 383a), this work was written by him following Aghoraśivācārya.

This is identical with IFI. T. 370 pp. 283-300 which is called Calaliṅgapratiṣṭhāvidhi.

This text which has 125 grantha-s is perhaps an abridged version of the text in IFI. T. 464b.

183.35 ĀGAMAPRATIṢṬHĀVIDHI

This lays down the procedure for installing the manuscript of an āgama for worship. The palm-leaves on which an āgama text is written are to be kept bound together with wooden boards on both sides and kept intact with chords. The consecration is done in the same manner as in the case of idols by erecting a pavilion, doing homa, etc., and then worshipping the manuscript. The Vīratantra, Santānasaṃhitā, Cintyaviśva, Yogaja and Kāmika are quoted. The treatment of this topic in IFI. T. 239 (pp. 306-307) & 289 (pp. 86-88) is very brief and incomplete. The text under notice is incomplete.

187.1 ĀTTICCŪṬIVEṆPĀ

This text contains 26 stanzas of a Tamil poem which was written by Irāmabhārati of the 19th century. Written in antāti form, these verses treat each saying of Auvaiyār's Ātticcūṭi and exemplify them by citing the stories from the Purāṇa-s. This is almost similar to GOML. R. 175 (m). This is different from the printed edn. (Tanjore 1866) having 109 verses.

Beginning

Fol. 1a, l.1. ātticcūṭiyama inta tēvarai yētti yēttit toḻuvēṇāmē // 1 // kamalattilē yutittu kamalattilē vaḷarnta kamalattile vaḷarnta kaṇapatiyai kamalattil mūlattiruviralkīḻ mūṉṟā-ka mele pātittuppottiyappare // 2 //

This Ms. gives a treatment of the sixteen purificatory rites (kriyā) which a Śaiva has to undergo. They are sacramental (saṃskāra) in their nature. The sixteen are:– Ṛtusaṃgamana (meeting the wife after the period), Garbhādhāna (impregnation), Puṃsavana (male production), Śīmanta (parting of the hair), Viṣṇupūjā (Viṣṇu worship), Jātakarman (birth-ceremony), Nāmakaraṇa (naming the child), Niṣkramaṇa (taking the child out of the house for the first time after its birth), Annaprāśana (making the child eat cooked rice), Karṇavedhana (piercing the ear lobes for wearing the ear-rings), Caula (tonsure), Akṣarabodhana (teaching the alphabets), Upanayana (investiture with the sacred thread), Vratakarman (observances by a student of Vedas), Samāvartana (return of the Vedic student from the home of the preceptor), and Vivāha (marriage).

The Ms. under notice, treats the preliminary rites in fol. 1a-12a and eleven sacraments beginning with Jātakarmavidhi. Kāṇḍamocanavidhi is dropped. Items 4 and 1 in this Ms. are found treated in IFI. 370 in pp. 305 and 306 respectively. IFI. Mss. 370, 373, 533 & 1061 treats many of these topics in slightly different order, dropping some of them.

The author of this Ms. is not known. There is, in print, Śaivaṣoḍaśaprakāśikā (SIAA, Grantha), 1954 written by Aghoraśivācārya. The treatment contained in this work has partial agreement with that in the Ms. under notice.

Blank folios: fly-leaf -b- and 48b.

1. Fols. 1a-48a: Gaṇapatitālādi.

Fly-leaf - a - contains the table of contents of the Ms. on 4 columns.

GAṆAPATITĀLĀDI

This Ms. deals with the observances undertaken at the commencement of the Mahotsava of Śiva. Dances and musical times (tāla), relating to Gaṇapati and Vṛṣabha, are dealt with at the beginning. The deities are invited to participate in the festival. This is called Devatāvāhana. The presence of the deities is then requested. This is called Sandhyāvāhana. Besides, invocations for these deities are made in the form of cūrṇikā (also read as cūrṇaka), a form of prose with compounds sparingly used. (Vide:– Viśvanātha: Sahitya darpaṇa, ch. VI, Kārikā 586). Aghoraśivācārya's Mahotsavavidhi deals with these topics. IFI. T. 521 and 531 deal with some of these. There is much agreement between the Ms. under notice, the two T. Mss. noted above and Mahotsavavidhi (printed edn.), with differences in readings and omission of some passages.

RE 10.923. PL.; 107 fols.; 382 × 27 mms.; 3-5 lines; condition: very much injured; Grantha; origin: Vedāraṇyam.

General contents

1. Sahasratantra; 2. Bodhāyanīyaprayoga.

Sahasratantra, which is also known as Sahasrāgama, is the 8th Śaiva Mūlāgama. The text under notice contains Aṣṭabandhanavidhi, in the Kriyāpāda (Vide:– colophon on fol. 61a). All the leaves are moth-eaten and highly damaged. The numbering of the fols. is in utter disorder. As most of the leaves are very brittle, it is difficult to make out the contents. Though the colophon is there on fol. 61a, the leaves beyond this contain also treatment of Śaivāgama topics. Liṅgabheda, Agnikārya, Āvaraṇapūjā and Vāstuhoma are found to have been dealt with. A leaf or two contain a little about Bodhāyana's Prayoga. For Mss., see IFI. T. 34, 103, 162.

194.2 ŚAIVASAÑJĪVINĪ

This text deals mainly with dīkṣā, its varieties and the procedure thereof. Incidental topics like Ācāryalakṣaṇa and others are also treated. The treatment is mainly in Sanskrit and much of the directions and procedures are in Tamil. Treatment on fols. 90a-116a is in the form of verses numbering 649. The author, whose name is not known, states on fol. 47a that this text is on the lines of paddhati-s of Aghoraśivācārya and others and is written in Maṇipravāla. The text is divided into 20 sections called adhikāra.

Profuse citations are made from standard texts like Kāmika, Kāraṇa and others, such as Samānatantra (61a), Tattvasaṃgraha (72a), Ṣaṭsahasra (82a), Kriyākaraṇamaṇḍana (89a), Brahmaśambhupaddhati (91b), Lakṣaṇasamuccaya (92a), Mantranighaṇṭu (93b), Vāsiṣṭhaliṅga (97a) and Bālajñānaratnāvalī (78b). Printed by Dharmapuram Ādhīnam.

194.3 ŚAIVACAMAYANEṞI

Author is Campantaṉ as given in the last verse in this text (fol. 264b). Maṟaiñāṉacampanta nāyaṉār as given in the printed book "Caivacamayaneṟi" along with a Tamil commentary (ca. Poṉṉusvāmi, Madras, 1955).

It is a manual on the daily routine and rituals of a Śaiva. It has three chapters, the first deals with the characteristics of ācārya, second with those of śiṣya and the third with the rituals and rites.

In the text under notice, the author states that (fol. 211a) he is writing this after seeing the Samayācārapaddhati of Vedajñāna in Tamil and writing this to get the approval of his śiṣya who also bears the same name and who lived at Cidambaram.

In Public domain. Digitization Muthulakshmi Research Academy

Important feature of the present work is that for each verse of the text, the author quotes the parallel passages and substantiates it from various Āgama-s and Purāṇa-s, as he states at the beginning that he is condensing the Ocean of Āgama-s.

In the margin of fol. 211a, it is written as Śaivacamayaneṟi mūlam. Printed – Vittiyāṉupālana Press, Madras. For Mss. see Tanj. Tamil Cat. II pp. 78-80.

Contents

195.6 ŚIVASTOTRA by Upamanyu

At the beginning of this text, it is said that this is ch. 24 in Part II of the Vāyavīyasaṃhitā of the Śivapurāṇa. This agrees well with the printed edn. of the Śivapurāṇavāyavīyasaṃhitā with commentary in Mahārāṣṭrī – uttarabhāga – ch. 24, Solapur 1905 and Śivamahāpurāṇa – Vāyavīyasamhitā – uttarabhāga – ch. 31 – Paṇḍitapustakālaya, Kāśi 1964. The colophon in this text mentions that this text forms ch. 74 in Section II of Śaṃkaravilāsa which is part of Śivakathāmṛtasārasaṃgraha of Vidyāraṇyayati, pupil of Śaṃkarāraṇya. The Alphabetical list of Mss. of the Adyar Library (Madras) contains the name of Śaṃkaravilāsa (Vāyavīyasaṃhitā) of Vidyāraṇya, pupil of Śaṃkarāraṇya. From this, it is clear that the text under notice contains the Śivastuti taken from the Śivapurāṇa and included in the Śaṃkaravilāsa, a collection of stories on Śiva compiled by Vidyāraṇya, pupil of Śaṃkarāraṇya.

197.13 VIJAYATANTRA
Kṛttikādīpotsava

This text deals with the procedure for performing the festival of Kṛttikādīpa. From the colophon, it is evident that this forms part of the Vijayatantra or Vijayāgama, 11th Mūlāgama. This has full agreement with the treatment of this topic in IFI. T. 124, pp. 56-71.

197.19 ŚIVALIṄGAPRATIṢṬHĀVIDHI
by Aghoraśivācārya

This text contains the procedure for the consecration of Śivaliṅga. According to the colophon, this is the work of Aghoraśivācārya. The printed edn. (CP. Madras) is more extensive in treatment than the text under notice. This text may therefore be an abridged version of the work of Aghoraśivācārya.

198.6 KĀRAṆĀGAMA
Vāsanārcanā

This deals with the daily worship of Śiva in the temple. It speaks about various types of liṅga, the result that one gets by worshipping them. The rites of varied kinds are dealt with here. The text under notice is similar to the chapter 30 called Nityārcanavidhipaṭala of Pūrvakāraṇāgama (CP. Madras, 1921) with different readings. IFI. T. 708 & T. 319 are different though they have the same name Vāsanārcanā. T. 708 forms part of Sakalāgamasaṅgraha of Aghoraśivācārya and the treatment is different in that.

Śaiva Texts

RE 10.975. PL.; 79 fols.; 318 × 28-32 mms.; old moth-eaten & edges are broken; Grantha & Tamil; origin: Vedāraṇyam.
Blank fols.: 2b, 5b, 11b, 23b, 33b, 63a, 64b, 69b, 76b, & 79b.

General contents

1. Fol. 1a-4b: Nyāsabheda; 2. 6a-11a: Āgamodbhava; 3. 12a-63a: Daśavidhanyāsa-s; 4. 64a: Śivadhyāna; 5. 65a-66b: Pañcākṣaramahimā; 6. 67a-68b: Śivadhyāna; 7. 72a-73b: Murukaṇ tuti; 8. 78a-79a: Ekatriṃśatkalānyāsa.

Fol. 5a has the popular verse śuklāmbaradharam . . . . Fol. 69a has a brief description about some yantra. Fol. 70a contains the list of tattva-s according to Śaivasiddhānta & fol. 70b has the list of the tattvādhipati-s (as written in the margin). In fol. 71a there is a verse extolling dharma (righteousness). Fol. 74a-76a contains some stray verses taken from Tēvāram. Fol. 77 has Gaurīkalānyāsa.

199.1 NYĀSABHEDA

This contains (1) Skandakalānyāsa (fols. 1-2a); Bālātripurasundarīnyāsa (fol. 3) and Bālātripurasundarīnyāsa (a different version on fol. 4). The treatment for Skandakalānyāsa agrees, to a large extent, with that in the printed edn. Kumāratantra (CP. Madras, 1916).

199.2 ĀGAMODBHAVA

Similar to n° 116.17

This is a collection of selected verses pertaining to the origin of the Śaivāgama-s, their number, etc., taken from Suprabheda, Kāraṇa, Śataratnasaṅgraha and Tantrasāra. It is very brief and incomplete.

Beginning

Fol. 6a, l.1. athātassaṃpravakṣyāmi tantrāṇāmudbhavaṃ param / tanoti vipulānarthān tantramantrasamāśritān // trāṇañca kurute puṃsāṃ tena tantramudīritam / kāmikaṃ yogajaṃ cintyaṃ kāraṇantvajitantathā // dīptaṃ sūkṣmaṃ sahasrañca aṃśumān suprabhedakam /

199.3 DAŚAVIDHANYĀSA-S

This work deals elaborately with almost all kinds of nyāsa according to the Śaivāgama-s. This work seems to be a rare one. T. 650 deals only with Nakṣatranyāsa. Ms. RE. 25296 deals only with Ṣaḍadhvanyāsa and some other nyāsa-s. On the margin of fol. 12a it is written Daśavidhanyāsa.

Contents

1. Fol. 12a-16a: Sṛṣṭinyāsa; 2. 17a-21a: Sthitinyāsa(?); 3. 21b-23a: Adhvanyāsa; 4. 24a-26a: Aṣṭatriṃśatkalānyāsa; 5. 26b-28b: Antarmātṛkā; 6. 29a-30b: Bahirmātṛkā; 7. 31a-35b: Śrīkaṇṭhanyāsa; 8. 36a-37b: Varṇarūpatattvanyāsa; 9. 38a-40a: Tattvatattveśvaranyāsa; 10. 40b-41a: Mūrtimūrtīśvaranyāsa; 11. 41b: Pañcapakṣanyāsa; 12. 42a-43b: Pīṭhetattvatattveśvaramūrtimūrtīśvaranyāsa; 13. 44a-63a: Ṣaḍadhvādinyāsa

199.8 EKATRIṂŚATKALĀNYĀSA

This text contains the Ekatriṃśatkalānyāsa which is done when any deity is installed for worship. The texts found in the manuscript and in the Subrahmaṇyapratiṣṭhāvidhi of Aghoraśivācārya (Pub. Madras, 1920) agree with each other except in the bīja-mantra-s. The text is complete. IFI. T. 166 has one Ekatriṃśatkalānyāsa which differs from the text under notice. For other Mss. see T. 116 & 465.

205.6 SAṂMELANAKAVACA

This kavaca, meaning an armour, is a type of stotra in which the god is prayed to protect each limb of the devotee. In the present one, both Naṭarāja & Śivakāmasundarī are prayed together, hence the name for this kavaca. IFI. T. 657 contains the same text. The text under notice is complete and not published.

This text mainly deals with Pratiṣṭhāvidhi. Pratiṣṭhākriyādīpikā (Kriyākramadīpikā) of Īśānaśivācārya is the basic text many portions of which are taken bodily and incorporated in the text. Besides this, Niśśvāsakārikā, & an upāgama of Śārvokta, and Svāyambhuva are also quoted for various rituals. On the margin of fol. 105a, it is written "Śaktimaṇḍapapūjai – Jñānaśivācāryapaddhati" & the colophon on fol. 138a reads: iti parameśvaraparama(apara ?)nāmadheyaśrīmatjñānaśivācāryaviracitāyāṃ kriyākramadī-pikāyāṃ śaktimaṇḍapapūjāvidhiḥ parisamāptaḥ // On fol. 82a also there is the colophon which reads: īśānaśivācāryaviracitāyāṃ pratiṣṭhākriyādīpikāyāṃ maṇḍapapūjāvidhiḥ samāptaḥ // According to NCC. Vol. VII, p. 338, Jñānaśivācārya is the same as Aghoraśivācārya. In the NCC. there is no mention of the work Kriyākramadīpikā. However Jñānaśivācārya the author of Kriyākramadīpikā is different from Aghoraśivācārya, the well known author of Kriyākramadyotikā. This Ms. seems to be a compendium of the treatment of topics taken from various sources.

235.4 ĀKHYĀṢAṢṬI
by Śrīdhara Veṅkaṭeśa

This contains the Ākhyāsaṣṭi of Śrīdhara Veṅkaṭeśa. It contains 63 śloka-s of which the last three are not traceable to the printed text. Even among others, there are śloka-s which are not found in the printed text and some of the śloka-s in the printed text are not found in Mss. On the margin on fol. 29, the title is given as Ākhyāśataka. This work is in praise of Śiva.

237.1 DĪKṢĀVIDHI & PŪJĀVIDHI

This contains a fragment of Dīkṣāvidhi and Pūjāvidhi. The latter has treatment of puraścaraṇa and nyāsa-s of some mantra-s. There is no continuity of treatment as many leaves are missing.

Beginning

Fol. 2 (11)a, l.1. hṛdayanābhiguhyajānupadeṣu nyasyāṣṭatattvāni vinyaset / oṃ lannamaḥ parāya pṛthivyātmane namaḥ / oṃ . . . parāya apātmane namaḥ /

237.2 ĀLAYANIRMĀṆAVIDHI

This contains a brief account of the way in which the various parts of a shrine are constructed. Leaves are missing. Treatment is thus incomplete.

Beginning

Fol. 8 (24)a, l.1. vāsī syāddaṇḍairdaṇḍopadhānakaiḥ / āyasaiḥ pāśakīlādyair yuktaṃ kṛtvāṅgulatrayam / utthāpya talpe saṃsthāpya bhitter vyāsārkabhāgataḥ

237.3 BERAPRATIṢṬHĀ

This is incomplete and meagre in contents describing the forms of certain bera-s of deities and the way of installing them. Loss of leaves in the middle has affected the continuity of treatment.

Beginning

Fol. 14 (400)a, l.1. arghyādbhistu natyantaṃ sarvān svākhyābhirarcayet / vīrabāhuṃ mahāvīryaṃ vidva(dyu)jjihvaṃ vilāsinam / ti(?)ñcatīkṣṇanetrañca tārākṣiñca bhavodbhavam //

237.5 CINTYĀGAMA
Prāyaścittavidhi

This contains the way of doing the act of expiation. From the colophon, this is found to form part of the Cintyāgama but this could not be traced to the Ms. Cintyāgama IFI. T. 888 where several kinds of expiation are dealt with. This text does not have the beginning portion of the chapter dealing with this topic.

Beginning

237.7 SŪKṢMAŚĀSTRA

This text is also called Sūkṣmāgama.

General contents

1. Fol. 21a-22a: Vāstupūjāvidhi; 2. 22a-24a: Aṅkurārpaṇavidhi; 3. 24a-31b: Utsavavidhi; 4. 32: Śraddhotsava; 5. 33a: Ārdrāvratavidhi; 6. 33b: Aṇḍeśārcanavidhi; 7. 33b: Dīpārohaṇa; 8. 34a-35a: Pūjāvidhi; 9. 35a-38b: Kāmakoṣṭhavidhi; 10. 39a: Grāmaśānti; 11. 39: Pacanālayavidhi; 12. 40a: Kūpasthāpanavidhi; 13. 40b: Gaurīvrata; 14. 41a: Ācāryārcanalakṣaṇa; 15. 41: Prāyaścitta.

Numbers of some chapters are given at the end of some colophons. Ārdrāvratavidhi is ch. 19, Aṇḍeśvarārcanavidhi ch. 20, Pacanālayavidhi ch. 40 and Kūpapratiṣṭhāvidhi ch. 49. Missing fols.: one between 28 & 29 (with the marginal writing n° 191); four between 31 & 32 (with marginal writing nos. 195-198; 47 between 33 & 34; two between 37 & 38; 19 between 38 & 39; two between 39 & 40; & 98 between 40 & 41). Thus continuity is much affected. Among these topics numbered above, 4 has no beginning and no end; 7, 10, 13 & 15 have just beginning only, 5, 8, 12, & 14 have only the ending portion. Nos. 3 & 9 have beginning and several portions are lost. 1, 2, 6 & 11 are alone complete.

IFI. has the following T. Mss. with nos. 36, 37, 38, 97, 132, 191, 955, 967, 1003 & 1016. The text under notice has partial or full agreement with the corresponding portions in these T. Mss. which however do not contain the treatment of all the topics. Mention could be made of T. 955 which treats Vāstupūjāvidhi. While all the T. Mss. treat a chapter called Aṇḍeśārcanavidhi, T. 955 calls this chapter by the name Caṇḍeśārcanavidhi.

Beginning

Paddhati-s of Sulocana and Īśānaśivaguru

RE 12.624. PL.; 176 fols.; 405-418 × 30-38 mms.; 7-8 lines; Grantha; old; some leaves damaged. Many leaves missing; two different handwritings; origin: Tirunelveli.

Sulocanapaddhati seems to be a rare text not noticed in any other manuscript-catalogues.

Contents

1. Fol. 1a-30b: Sulocanapaddhati; 2. 31a-156b: Īśānaśivagurudevapaddhati.

Fol. 157 and 158 contain some scribbling of navāvaraṇārcana, etc.

239.1 SULOCANAPADDHATI

This text contains the procedure for consecration (pratiṣṭhā) of the main deity at the temple in Tirunelveli. Further, this paddhati is mainly concerned with that particular temple. It basically follows the Kāmikāgama. At some places it follows Kāraṇa, Svāyambhuva, etc. The text as we have only starts from the 43rd fol. and hence no beginning is available. The text starts with the last portion of the Pañcagavyavidhi. Many leaves in the middle of the text are lost. Saptaśuddhi, Vāstubali, Piśācabali, Rākṣoghnahoma are some of the topics dealt with in the text.

Missing fols.: 1-42, 54, 56-60, 69-96, 98-172, 177-216, 218-240, 242-244 and 246-254.

This stotra in praise of Śiva at the temple on the hill called Parvatamalai (near Tiruvannamalai, North Arcot Dt.) is a rare work. That temple is a very ancient one and it has been sung in the Sangam Tamil Literature, viz. Pattuppāṭṭu. On fol. 1b there is mention of one Appayyādhvarin. It is not known whether he is the author of this stotra. Totally there are 105 verses. Some three verses which seem to be in praise of Naṭarāja are added at the end.

RE 15.391. PL.; 193 fols.; 200 × 33 mms.; 6 lines; Grantha & Tamil; very old and many leaves broken at the edges; origin: Tirunelveli.
Missing folio: 1

This contains the daily worship done to the god & goddess at Tirunelveli temple. The text starts with the getting up of the priest from bed and details the procedure of worship. The peculiarity of this text is that it does not follow any āgama text but the Śrīvidyākrama. There is also Śrīcakrapūjā. Everywhere the God is invoked as "Śrīkāntimatyānandasundaryambāsameta sūryaśrīśālivāṭīśānandasomasundareśvara". Nine guru-s (preceptors) – Sadāśivācārya, Anantaśivācārya, Śrīkaṇṭhaśivācārya, Ambikāśivācārya, Guhaśivācārya, Viṣṇuśivācārya, Brahmaśivācārya, Aghoraśivācārya and Pañcākṣaraśivācārya are mentioned in fol. 49b-50a. Further many Vedic mantra-s are used in the text. The text is incomplete as the beginning portion and end portion are lost.

260.2 CINTĀMAṆIKAVACA
(Rudrayāmala)

This is a kavaca (armour) and serves as a protection. Here the Śrīvidyāmantra is invoked and prayed to protect various limbs of the person who chants it. The text seems to be rare. Though it is stated in the colophon that it forms part of Rudrayāmala, it is not found in the printed text. In the margin of fol. 3b, it is written as Jagaccintāmaṇikavaca.

Beginning

274.8 BĪJĀKṢARAMĀLIKĀSTOTRA
(Rudrayāmala)

This text contains the Bījākṣaramālikāstotra which forms part of Oḍyāmala, part of Rudrayāmala according to the colophon. The beginning portion is a stotra on Devī called Devīstotra (30.3) and Bālādhyāna (44.4). This contains 14 śloka-s in praise of the Bījākṣara-s. It seems that the stotra which begins this text and which is identical with 30.3 and 44.4, is an introduction to this stotra. This seems to be a rare text.
